Bridge Leap Takes Life of Lee Clark

Leland "Lee' Clark, about 58, who had been staying at the Hotel Stuyvesant apparently jumped from the Rondout creek bridge Saturday afternoon and perished in the waters of the Rondout creek, the Kingston police department reports.

Grappling operations were conducted by deputy sheriffs Sunday and although the body was seen floating in the water near the Sleightsburgh side of the creek shortly after he was reported to have jumped from the bridge, it had not been recovered early today.

Clark had been employed as a chef in various hotels and restaurants in this vicinity and in Woodstock for several years and has also been employed in private homes. At one time he was chef at The Nook in Woodstock and later was employed at Leherb's in Kingston.

Some time ago he went to Florida seeking employment and while there was seized with a heart attack. He had been despondent since his return, because of his inability to work and on Friday Clark visited The Freeman office uptown where he told a reporter he intended to "jump off the bridge," but his threat was not taken seriously.

At 3:24 p. m. Saturday the Kingston police department was notified by Mrs. Gallop of Gallop's TV store at 7 Wurts street that a man had jumped from the Port Ewen end of the bridge. The report was given to Mrs. Gallop by James Fuco of 195 Ten Broeck avenue and Roger Justis of 192 Ten Broeck avenue, two teen agers who said they had seen the man jump.

Officers Bernard Fowler and John Frasch were sent to the Port Ewen end of the bridge and Sheriff Cluett Schantz was notified. Deputies were immediately sent to the scene.

The police officers on arrival at the scene reported they had observed a body in the water floating toward the Richfield Oil dock at Sleightsburg. The top of the head was visible and they notified the sheriff, fire department and Coroner Francis J. McCardle and proceeded to the premises of Ray Cwill on Ferry street opposite the Richfield docks where they sought a boat to cross the creek and intercept the body but it had disappeared before reaching the scene.

Among the deputies sent by Sheriff Schantz was Jailor Carl Cline who said he had observed the body in the water 12 feet distant but it disappeared from view.

On the Rondout Creek bridge was found a pair of gloves, brown hat, blue topcoat, brown jacket and some personal papers which identified the owner as Leland Clark. There was also found 22 cents in change.

According to the police record Clark had been staying at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

A TEMPORARY RESTAURANT with nearby gasoline station facilities are serving travelers on the New York State Thruway pending completion, of the permanent Class-A type restaurants and filling stations in the Ruby and Malden areas. The facilities are north of Route 28 in the interchange area, and are now in operation. The permanent restaurants will be much larger than the temporary one above. They will have snack bars, gift shops, lunch and dining rooms, cafeterias along with gas station facilities. (Freeman photos)

R. P. Zeeh, One Victim, Is Local Man

Bellmore Resident Hit at Samsonville

Hunting accidents in Ulster county claimed the lives of two persons within an hour Sunday morning.

The dead:

Raymond P. Zeeh, 36, of 17 Arlington Place, Kingston, who was employed at Zeeh's Bottling Works operated by his father and uncle.

William Meinch, Jr., 28, of Chapman avenue, Bellmore, L. I.

ZEEH DIED on the operating table at the Benedictine Hospital at 9:10 a. m. Meinch was dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital where he was taken after a hunting accident near Samsonville about 8:20 a. m.

Both deaths were ruled accidental by Coroner Francis J. McCardle. Investigations were conducted by the district attorney and sheriff's department men.

Zeeh, well known local man and veteran of World War 2, was shot in the right shoulder when a deer rifle in the hands of his hunting companion, Charles Senor of Kiersted avenue, accidentally discharged as Senor was loading it and slipped on a patch of ice, the sheriff's office reported.

ZEEH AND SENOR had arrived at the foot of the Wittenberg Mountain about 7:20 a. m. Sunday and had just started from their automobile toward the mountain when the accident occurred, the coroner said.

The bullet entered the right shoulder, lodging itself in the upper thorax, McCardle reported.

Senor carried Zeeh to the automobile and took him to the Benedictine, where the injured man was immediately taken to surgery, the coroner reported, and died as a result of the gunshot wound at 9:10 a. m.

The body was taken to the Henry J. Bruck Funeral Home, 27 Smith avenue.

The son of John L. and Hazel Johnston Zeeh, Raymond P. Zeeh graduated from St. Peter's School and attended Kingston High School, where he played football. During World War 2, he served as gunner's mate third class and had been awarded the American Theatre and the European-American Theatre of War campaign ribbons.

HE WAS A MEMBER of St. Peter's Holy Name Society; Kingston Post 150, American Legion; Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club; East Kingston Rod and Gun Club and the Phoenicia Fish and Game Association. He

U.S. Weighs Move Against Red Act

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Communist China's defiant refusal to free 13 Americans jailed as spies confronted the U. S. government today with the perplexing problem of how to make the Reds change their minds.

With the British serving as intermediaries, the Chinese Communists yesterday rejected an American note protesting the imprisonment of 11 captured airmen and 2 U. S. army civilian employes on spy charges. The State Department called the charges "baseless."

But the British government, reporting the Chinese turned down the U. S. note as "unacceptable," said the Reds insisted the evidence against the 13 Americans was incontestable.

THE BRITISH ACTED as go-between because this country does not recognize the Red Chinese regime and maintains no direct diplomatic contact with Peiping.

The Chinese reaction to the U. S. protest — a development that was not unexpected—left the next move up to the United States what that move might be remained an open question as State Department officials reported "all appropriate measures are being considered."

Secretary of State Dulles was scheduled for a major foreign policy speech tonight in Chicago and it seemed likely he would touch on the potentially explosive Far Eastern situation. Dulles' speech (10:30 p. m. EST) was to be broadcast by Mutual and NBC radio and by NBC TV.

President Eisenhower may have marked out the bounds for American action in this case when he used the phrase "within peaceful means" last week in assuring the mother of one of the imprisoned men that the United States is doing everything possible to win their freedom.

SEN. KNOWLAND of California, the Republican leader in the Senate, sounded a call Saturday for direct action against the Chinese Reds — a naval blockade. One of the possible counter measures reported under study at the State Department was said to involve such a blockade, but diplomatic informants said they found little evidence of support for the idea.

Ultimately, this country's policy in this situation probably will be determined by the President and the National Security Council, the nation's top defense and foreign policy strategy board comprising the military chiefs, Dulles, Secretary of Defense Wilson and others.

EISENHOWER, at Augusta, Ga., for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend had no comment on Knowland's blockade suggestion. But there were indications the President might have something to say on the matter of the jailed Americans after he returns to Washington late today.

Local Guard May Join Armored Unit

Official word is expected momentarily, probably early next month, that local national guard units will become part of an armored field artillery battalion.

This would mean that the local guardsmen and other units in upstate New York would become part of the 27th Armored Division and would be equipped with tanks and other heavy armored equipment. Details of the change will not be announced until the units to be affected are officially notified.

LOCAL GUARDSMEN, meanwhile, will join with Poughkeepsie units in a review to be staged tonight at the local armory in honor of New York state armory employes at both cities.

Families and friends of the guardsmen are expected to attend and it is expected that about 700 will be present. It will be a full dress affair with demonstrations of all types. Each battery is detailed to put on a demonstration in the drill shed. They will include close order drill, riot control, gun operations.

Senior non-commissioned officers will conduct the review and music will be by the Port Ewen Colonial Cavaliers. Refreshments and dancing will follow.

No Comment on Attack

Ridgewood, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—"Everything is all over as far as we are concerned." That was the only comment yesterday from the mother of the late William W. Remington when asked whether the family would have anything to say about the prison attack that led to her son's death. Funeral services for the 37-year-old Remington were held at St. Elizabeth's Episcopal Church near the Remington home here on Saturday.

Sirens to Launch Dystrophy Drive Today at 7 P. M.

Fire sirens will sound at 7 p. m. today in the uptown area to mark the beginning of the porchlight drive in the war against muscular dystrophy.

The drive, sponsored by Local 461, The Kingston Uniformed Firemen's Association, AFL, is part of a campaign sponsored by the International Association of Firefighters.

Members of the firemen's association will call at homes which have switched on their porchlight, it was explained.

THE DRIVE will be held in the uptown area above the Broadway underpass from 7 to 8:30 p. m. today.

At 7 p. m. Tuesday fire sirens will sound in the downtown area below the underpass announcing the beginning of the drive in that section of the city.

Donations also may be left at the following places: Central Fire Station on East O'Reilly street, Cornell Fire Station on Abeel street and Wiltwyck Fire Station on Fair street. Donations may also be mailed to the Muscular Dystrophy Association, 39 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

Bomb Fleet Of B52s Is Plan of U.S.

11 Wings to Form; To Replace B36

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—America's new H-Bomb striking force will consist of 11 wings of high speed, long-range B52 jet bombers—four more wings than previously announced.

This force, Pentagon officials said today, will gradually replace during the next two or three years the present fleet of heavy strategic bombers—the B36 powered with a combination piston-jet plant.

THE COST of the program, based on estimates of the average cost of B52s when in full production, the cost of development of the first two prototype planes, of tanker planes for refueling and of putting into operation a second source of production, may be about $4,300,000,000.

Until this new indication was made by Pentagon officials who may not be identified, the Air Force had admitted officially only that the program called for seven wings of B52s. A heavy bomber wing includes 30 planes plus supporting elements.

Highland Man Is Injured in Fall

Richard Dunham, 37, of Grand street, Highland, was critically injured in a fall from a cliff while he was hunting near the Lexington Notch near Bushnellsville on Saturday, state police of Phoenicia reported.

Discovered lying unconscious not far from Route 42 by four other hunters, Dunham was taken to Kingston Hospital, where his condition today was listed as "critical," and he was being readied for transfer to Albany Hospital.

TROOPERS SAID that apparently Dunham fell from a 50-foot cliff, then rolled 200 feet from the base of the cliff down an embankment to a point near the highway, where he was discovered by four hunters in a passing automobile at 3:45 p. m. Saturday.

The hunters who found the man were John Wich, George Auth, Sr., and George Auth, Jr., all of the Bronx, and Henry Lynch of Hicksville, L. I.

After examination at Kingston Hospital, it was reported to state police that Dunham was suffering from concussion and had probably lain helpless for five or six hours after the accident before he was discovered.

Grandma Doss Tells How She Poisoned 4 Husbands

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 29 (AP)—Affable Grandmother Nannie Doss chilled veteran police officers by signing additional statements last night that she used liquid rat poisoning to snuff out the lives of four of her five husbands.

She calmly smoked a cigarette as she described in detail how she administered the poison into the food and drink of spouses from four states.

County Attorney J. Howard Edmondson said a murder charge will be filed today against the 49-year-old plumpish jovial widow for the Oct. 6 death of Samuel Doss, 58, of Tulsa.

Edmondson said the other poisoned husbands and the dates they died are:

Frank Harrelson, Jacksonville, Ala., 1945.

Harley Lanning, Lexington, N. C., 1952.

Richard L. Morton, 64, Emporia, Kan., May 19, 1953.

The prosecutor, with city officers and Kansas and Oklahoma agents, has questioned the woman since her arrest Friday night and said investigations into the deaths of four of Mrs. Doss's relatives probably will be undertaken.

He identified the relatives, whom he said succumbed under strange circumstances, as Mrs. Doss' mother, two sisters and a step-grandson.

After making her confession,

Big Three Reject Russian Parley

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The western Big Three formally rejected Russia's proposal for a European peace conference today, but laid down five steps they said could lead to such a meeting.

In one-two positions among these steps were agreement on an Austrian state treaty and modification of Russia's position on holding free elections to reunify Germany.

The other three points called for study, through diplomatic channels, of all questions relating to European security; a meeting of Soviet, British, French, and American foreign ministers after ratification of the London-Paris agreements, and perhaps a conference of "European and other interested powers to consider the remaining aspects of European security."

The Western Big Three sent their identical rejections by messenger to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow.

The notes were a formal turndown to Russia's Oct. 23 proposal for a four power foreign ministers meeting, and the Soviets' Nov. 13 proposal for a general east-west conference on creating a collective security system for Europe.

Both these proposals, the U. S. reply said, were aimed at delaying or preventing ratification of the agreements reached by the western nations at meetings in London and Paris this fall. The text of the U. S. reply was made public by the State Department.

American officials emphasized that close examination had failed to show anything new in the Soviet proposal.

First Kapers Show Tonight

The first of two performances of the 1954 Kiwanis Kapers will be presented tonight at 8:15 o'clock at Kingston High School Auditorium. The Kapers will be repeated Tuesday at the same hour.

This year's show is built around the theme of a world cruise.

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the Kapers are staged annually to raise funds for its scholarship fund and youth work.

Adenauer Says He Is Satisfied

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 29 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today he is satisfied the results in two important state elections yesterday mean voters support his policy of rearming Germany on the side of the west.

He said in a statement that the vote was a reconfirmation of the correctness of his foreign policy, but used only the word "satisfactory" to give his reaction.

The Chancellor's Christian Democratic Union lost ground in yesterday's voting in both the states of Bavaria and Hesse, but held control of the Bavarian state government. This insured the Adenauer regime's retention of its two-thirds majority in the upper house of the federal parliament (Bundesrat), whose members are named by the state governments.

THE VOTING OUTCOME also raised the possibility that a coalition dominated by the Christian Democrats could supplant the Socialist government in Hesse. This would give the federal regime 30 of the 38

Dairymen Meet to Discuss Changes in Milk Movement

State College, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—Suggested changes in the federal marketing order that controls the movement of milk into metropolitan New York were ready for consideration at a meeting of industry representatives today.

The recommendations were drawn up by a committee headed by Everett Case, president of Colgate University.

More than 100 direcctors of milk marketing cooperatives in the New York milk shed, a six-state area of the northeastern United States, are gathered at Penn State University here for two days of closed conferences on problems of the area. One director described the meeting as "purely educational."

A recent amendment to the order, which stipulated specific requirements for cooperatives that receive money from the milk market administrator for distribution to member dairymen, was a major point on the agenda.

The amendment, adopted last summer, requires each farmer's cooperative to have a minimum membership of 4,000 and specifies the minimum staff permissable and requirements for staff members. As a result of the Amendment a number of small cooperatives in the area have formed federations.

The federal marketing order

Kingston Revenue Office May Get Personnel Shift

Personnel of the Kingston internal revenue office is expected to be affected by a move to cut down overstaffing in the Albany district, it was indicated today.

The Associated Press reported from Albany that 45 of 103 internal revenue service collection officers in the Albany office will be transferred or laid off by mid-January.

It is expected that most personnel involved will be given opportunity to transfer elsewhere. Local sources were unable to announce the extent to which the office would be affected.

THE OFFICE, which has suboffices at Ellenville and Catskill, has a personnel of 16, including office staffs and other clerical help. It is expected that the only ones to be laid off will be those who refuse transfers to

Bridge Leap Takes Life of Lee Clark

Leland "Lee' Clark, about 58, who had been staying at the Hotel Stuyvesant apparently jumped from the Rondout creek bridge Saturday afternoon and perished in the waters of the Rondout creek, the Kingston police department reports.

Grappling operations were conducted by deputy sheriffs Sunday and although the body was seen floating in the water near the Sleightsburgh side of the creek shortly after he was reported to have jumped from the bridge, it had not been recovered early today.

Among the deputies sent by Sheriff Schantz was Jailor Carl Cline who said he had observed the body in the water 12 feet distant but it disappeared from view.

On the Rondout Creek bridge was found a pair of gloves, brown hat, blue topcoat, brown jacket and some personal papers which identified the owner as Leland Clark. There was also found 22 cents in change.

According to the police record Clark had been staying at the Stuyvesant Hotel.

R. P. Zeeh, One Victim, Is Local Man

Bellmore Resident Hit at Samsonville

Hunting accidents in Ulster county claimed the lives of two persons within an hour Sunday morning.

The dead:

Raymond P. Zeeh, 36, of 17 Arlington Place, Kingston, who was employed at Zeeh's Bottling Works operated by his father and uncle.

William Meinch, Jr., 28, of Chapman avenue, Bellmore, L. I.

ZEEH DIED on the operating table at the Benedictine Hospital at 9:10 a. m. Meinch was dead on arrival at Kingston Hospital where he was taken after a hunting accident near Samsonville about 8:20 a. m.

Highland Man Is Injured in Fall

Richard Dunham, 37, of Grand street, Highland, was critically injured in a fall from a cliff while he was hunting near the Lexington Notch near Bushnellsville on Saturday, state police of Phoenicia reported.

Discovered lying unconscious not far from Route 42 by four other hunters, Dunham was taken to Kingston Hospital, where his condition today was listed as "critical," and he was being readied for transfer to Albany Hospital.

TROOPERS SAID that apparently Dunham fell from a 50-foot cliff, then rolled 200 feet from the base of the cliff down an embankment to a point near the highway, where he was discovered by four hunters in a passing automobile at 3:45 p. m. Saturday.

Big Three Reject Russian Parley

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—The western Big Three formally rejected Russia's proposal for a European peace conference today, but laid down five steps they said could lead to such a meeting.

In one-two positions among these steps were agreement on an Austrian state treaty and modification of Russia's position on holding free elections to reunify Germany.

The other three points called for study, through diplomatic channels, of all questions relating to European security; a meeting of Soviet, British, French, and American foreign ministers after ratification of the London-Paris agreements, and perhaps a conference of "European and other interested powers to consider the remaining aspects of European security."

The Western Big Three sent their identical rejections by messenger to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow.

The notes were a formal turndown to Russia's Oct. 23 proposal for a four power foreign ministers meeting, and the Soviets' Nov. 13 proposal for a general east-west conference on creating a collective security system for Europe.

Both these proposals, the U. S. reply said, were aimed at delaying or preventing ratification of the agreements reached by the western nations at meetings in London and Paris this fall. The text of the U. S. reply was made public by the State Department.

American officials emphasized that close examination had failed to show anything new in the Soviet proposal.

First Kapers Show Tonight

The first of two performances of the 1954 Kiwanis Kapers will be presented tonight at 8:15 o'clock at Kingston High School Auditorium. The Kapers will be repeated Tuesday at the same hour.

Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the Kapers are staged annually to raise funds for its scholarship fund and youth work.

Adenauer Says He Is Satisfied

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 29 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today he is satisfied the results in two important state elections yesterday mean voters support his policy of rearming Germany on the side of the west.

He said in a statement that the vote was a reconfirmation of the correctness of his foreign policy, but used only the word "satisfactory" to give his reaction.

The Chancellor's Christian Democratic Union lost ground in yesterday's voting in both the states of Bavaria and Hesse, but held control of the Bavarian state government. This insured the Adenauer regime's retention of its two-thirds majority in the upper house of the federal parliament (Bundesrat), whose members are named by the state governments.

THE VOTING OUTCOME also raised the possiblility that a coalition dominated by the Christian Democrats could supplant the Socialist government in Hesse. This would give the federal regime 30 of the 38

Kingston Revenue Office May Get Personnel Shift

Personnel of the Kingston internal revenue office is expected to be affected by a move to cut down overstaffing in the Albany district, it was indicated today.

The Associated Press reported from Albany that 45 of 103 internal revenue service collection officers in the Albany office will be transferred or laid off by mid-January.

It is expected that most personnel involved will be given opportunity to transfer elsewhere. Local sources were unable to announce the extent to which the office would be affected.

THE OFFICE, which has suboffices at Ellenville and Catskill, has a personnel of 16, including office staffs and other clerical help. It is expected that the only ones to be laid off will be those who refuse transfers to

Grandma Doss Tells How She Poisoned 4 Husbands

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 29 (AP) — Affable Grandmother Nannie Doss chilled veteran police officers by signing additional statements last night that she used liquid rat poisoning to snuff out the lives of four of her five husbands.

She calmly smoked a cigarette as she described in detail how she administered the poison into the food and drink of spouses from four states.

County Attorney J. Howard Edmondson said a murder charge will be filed today against the 49-year-old plumpish jovial widow for the Oct. 6 death of Samuel Doss, 58, of Tulsa.

Edmondson said the other poisoned husbands and the dates they died are:

Frank Harrelson, Jacksonville, Ala., 1945.

Harley Lanning, Lexington, N. C., 1952.

Richard L. Morton, 64, Emporia, Kan., May 19, 1953.

The prosecutor, with city officers and Kansas and Oklahoma agents, has questioned the woman since her arrest Friday night and said investigations into the deaths of four of Mrs. Doss's relatives probably will be undertaken.

He identified the relatives, whom he said succumbed under strange circumstances, as Mrs. Doss' mother, two sisters and a step-grandson.

After making her confession,

Dairymen Meet to Discuss Changes in Milk Movement

State College, Pa., Nov. 29 (AP)—Suggested changes in the federal marketing order that controls the movement of milk into metropolitan New York were ready for consideration at a meeting of industry representatives today.

The recommendations were drawn up by a committee headed by Everett Case, president of Colgate University.

More than 100 direcctors of milk marketing cooperatives in the New York milk shed, a six-state area of the northeastern United States, are gathered at Penn State University here for two days of closed conferences on problems of the area. One director described the meeting as "purely educational."

A recent amendment to the order, which stipulated specific requirements for cooperatives that receive money from the milk market administrator for distribution to member dairymen, was a major point on the agenda.

The amendment, adopted last summer, requires each farmer's cooperative to have a minimum membership of 4,000 and specifies the minimum staff permissable and requirements for staff members. As a result of the Amendment a number of small cooperatives in the area have formed federations.

The federal marketing order

Youth, 15, Safe After Spending Night in Woods

Eugene Kracke, 15, of Liberty, emerged safely from the woods near Claryville on Sunday morning after spending the night sleeping in a sheltered spot while a searching party of 40 combed the area, state police reported.

Young Kracke strolled from the Erts hunting camp on Wildcat Mountain near Claryville about 3 p. m. Sunday, troopers were informed. A searching party of hunters, volunteers from the Grahamsville and Liberty fire departments was formed and searched the area around the camp from 4:30 p. m. Saturday until 5 a. m. Sunday. They were preparing to resume the search at 7 a. m. when the boy walked from the woods, apparently unharmed, near the White Tail Lodge, where he was found by David Cyterg and Grover Smith, both of Woodbourne, and returned to his father at the Erts camp.

Eugene told the searchers that as soon as he realized he was lost Saturday night he found a sheltered place in the woods and went to sleep.

Shipyard Owner

Carr and Sons Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock where friends may call. The casket will not be opened. Officers and members of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, are requested to report at A. Carr and Sons Funeral Home at 1:45 o'clock Wednesday to attend the services. Funeral will be held from the A. Carr and Sons Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Montrepose Cemetery.

He continued with the business which had been established by his father, Conrad Hiltebrant at South Rondout, and during World War 1 and World War 2 his firm was engaged in government work. During World War I the company built sub-chasers at the Rondout creek plant and during World War 2 the company built mine sweepers for the navy.

He was born in Kingston, the son of Conrad and Elizabeth Steinhauser Hiltebrant. After attending local schools he entered Cornell to study naval architecture and on completion of that course entered the business with his father. He was considered an outstanding authority on ship design and during the period of the company's naval shipbuilding contracts he supervised this work at the local yards in Connelly, formerly South Rondout.

IN 1918 when Company M, New York National Guard, had been federalized and the New York State Guard organized he joined the guard and served as lieutenant during World War 1, in addition to his duties at the shipyard which was then engaged in government work. In 1919 when Capt. Everett Fowler, then commanding officer of the guard retired, he was promoted to captain and given command of the local military organization which shortly after the close of World War 1 was changed to the 132nd Ammunition Company, New York National Guard. In 1924 when the local outfit was re-organized and became the 1st Bn. 156th F.A. National Guard, Captain Hiltebrant was promoted to major and he served as commanding officer until his resignation in 1936.

Throughout his entire business career he was associated with the business which had been established by his father in 1868.

GEORGE E. YERRY, JR., business agent of Kingston Metal Trades Council, AFL, mourned the death of Major Hiltebrant today with a tribute to the major's relations with labor unions.

Yerry said 'Major Hiltebrant's death comes as a great shock to our labor unions who consider his loss detrimental, not only to our local yards but to shipyards all over the country.

"His relations with labor unions were excellent and so far as we're concerned if labor laws did not require signed agreements between employer and the union, we never would have needed one with him."

Mrs. Clark Pleads Guilty in Court To Mate's Slaying

Salem, Mass., Nov. 29 (AP)—Lorraine Eaton Clark, 29, pretty mother of three young children, suddenly pleaded guilty today to a charge of second degree murder in the shooting-stabbing death of her husband and was sentenced to life in prison.

The slender, brunette defendant's surprise plea was accepted by the court upon the recommendation of Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg, the prosecutor.

HE TOLD SUPERIOR Court Judge Charles Fairhurst of a plea by Melvin W. Clark, father of the slain man, to save the "wreck" of the family of his son, Melvin W. Clark, Jr., 29.

Judge Fairhurst said, in imposing sentence, that life at the state prison for women (Sherborn) is mandatory by law for second degree murder.

MRS. CLARK STOOD UP as sentence was imposed. Her lips quivered and her eyes became tear filled but she made no outward sound.

Within two minutes she was led from the courtroom by Special Sheriff Roger Wells, followed by her lawyer, C. Francis Leary.

A 3½ page confession by Mrs. Clark, which Cregg had labeled "too lurid" to disclose publicly was submitted to the court for the record. Cregg said it would not be made public, adding "if Judge Fairhurst does not impound it I will."

The young husband was shot twice with a pistol and twice stabbed during Palm Sunday weekend, last April 10-11.

Mrs. Clark reported her husband had disappeared after a bitter quarrel and later sued for divorce.

His unrecognizable body was found in June near the Merrimack river, into which Mrs. Clark said she had dumped it after dragging it from their cottage into the family car. Navy service finger prints established identity.

With Cregg's decision not to divulge details of the statement it appeared likely the motive will not become known.

U. S. Weighs Move

delegates said they looked for the issue to come up this week during debate in the UN Political Committee on the Korean peace settlement deadlock. However, a U. S. delegation spokesman said there has been no decision on how to broach the question.

While the U. S. grappled with the immediate problem of the captive Americans, American and Chinese Nationalist diplomats were reported to have reached substantial agreement on a new treaty—a pact under which the United States would guarantee to shield Formosa, the neighboring Pescadores and perhaps some coastal islands held by the forces of Chiang Kai-shek.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS were said to look on this pact—which is expected to be signed before the end of this year—as a possible first step toward stabilizing conditions in the Formosa area.

It was understood U. S. diplomats believe a formal pact of this sort would discourage Red attempts to conquer Chiang's Formosa stronghold. At the same time, the treaty would strengthen Chiang defensively and would pledge him to avoid what the diplomats term provocative attacks on the Red-held Chinese mainland.

Oneonta Has Snow

Albany, Nov. 29 (AP)—Wet snow and rain today gave New Yorkers some miserable weather to start the week, but the forecasters said the precipitation would taper off during the day as the weather turned colder. The storm dumped up to four inches of wet snow at Oneonta and at some points in northern New York. But rain was reported in many areas, including Buffalo, Rochester, Elmira, Watertown and Glens Falls. State police said all roads were open, although slippery driving was reported around Inlet, in Hamilton county.

Woman Arrested In Assault Case

Lillian Jones, 48, of 14 Ann street, was arrested by James Jones, of the same address, on a third degree assault charge, early Sunday.

The arrest, police said, followed the treatment of James Jones at Kingston Hospital for stab wounds on the left arm.

Officers Everett Emmick and Gerald McCloskey were assigned to investigate after a report from Kingston Hospital at 12:38 a. m., said Jones was being treated there for stab wounds.

At 12:55 a. m., police reported the arrest of the woman. The case was put over until next Saturday when the defendant appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. She had spent the weekend in jail but was paroled pending hearing of the case next Saturday.

Selection of a jury started this morning for the trial of Charles Ostrander, 36, of 19 Foxhall avenue, who was charged with driving while intoxicated after the car he was driving was in collision with a state police patrol car at Albany and Foxhall avenues, Nov. 5.

Five Indictments Returned by Jury

A report was made to County Judge John M. Cashin this morning when the Grand Jury reported five indictments, three sealed and two open.

A bill charging John Volynski of Kingston with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, at the Bush gas station on Hurley avenue was handed up. Charles Gaffney appeared for defendant and a plea of innocent was entered.

The second open bill was one charging David France of Saugerties with violation of Section 1879, Sub. 4, illegal possession of a firearm. A plea of innocent was entered and William D. Brinnier was assigned.

Both defendants were remanded to the custody of the sheriff in the absence of bail.

Army Camp Boom

Fry, Ariz. (AP)—This community is taking on the aspects of a boom town with the reactivation of Ft. Huachuca. Among the new stores are a supermarket, a package liquor store and three firms selling trailers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 29 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in the early afternoon but with some difficulty.

Gains and losses with a few exceptions spread over a range of around a point.

Volume hit a pace better than three million shares for the day. Friday's total in a strong market was 3,010,000 shares.

Higher with the railroads were the coppers, chemicals, and aircrafts.

WILLIAM MEINCH, JR., of Bellmore, was fatally injured when accidently shot by a hunting companion he met for the first time Friday night, according to the coroner's and sheriff's office reports.

A bullet from a 38-40 Winchester rifle which accidently discharged in the hands of Edward Joseph Vallarella, 21, of 316 North Corona avenue, Valley Stream, L. I., entered his gluteal region and pierced the frontal right thigh, Coroner McCardle said.

The accident occurred behind the White Stone Inn near Samsonville.

VALLARELLA RAN to a house about a quarter-mile away and summoned help, the coroner said. The Kingston Hospital ambulance conveyed Meinch to that hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Meinch, an employe of the New York Telephone Company in Bellmore, had come to a hunting lodge owned by his grandfather, Alfred Sloverg, at Samsonville, with Stephen Caroone of Bellmore and Frederick Sigurdson of Brooklyn, the sheriff's office reported.

While at the lodge, they met Vallarella, and struck up a friendship which resulted in an invitation to Vallarella, to join their party, according to the report.

On Sunday morning, Meinch and Vallarella left early, and were to meet Caroone later near the White Stone Inn, sheriff's men were told.

As Meinch and Vallarella were walking from the woods near the Inn, Vallarella's gun accidentally discharged, Coroner McCardle said.

Meinch, also a World War 2 veteran, was married and had one daughter. The body was taken today by the McCardle Funeral Home to Bellmore, where funeral services and burial will take place on Wednesday at Long Island National Cemetery.

Dairymen Meet

regulates the movement of all milk and milk products into the New York city area and also the price paid to dairymen for their milk. The producer price is based on a complicated formula that is figured monthly by the market administration.

Dr. C. J. Blanford, market administrator for the milk shed, is among the officials scheduled to speak. He will disccuss milk price prospects for the coming year tomorrow.

Representatives of four milk cooperatives will serve as chairmen of seperate sessions. They are Gilbert Cargin, East Meredith, N. Y., of the Eastern Milk Producers; Edwin Ferber, Jeffersonville, N. Y., Mutual Federation of Independent Producers; John Holloway, Amsterdam, N. Y., Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency; and A. Morelle Cheney, New York State City Dairymen's League.

Faculty members of Pennsylvania State University, Cornell, the University of Connecticut and the University of Vermont will assist in the discussions.

Other topics fixed for discussion include the dairy outlook, the entire agricultural situation, and the duties of cooperatives.

Senator Asks End of Debate

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy proposed today that the Senate end its censure debate at 3 p. m. Wednesday. He said he was prepared for whatever the Senate might do.

"In the interest of the overall national welfare, I suggest that no good can be achieved by continuing this debate," McCarthy told his colleagues.

He said he had decided on the speech while he was in the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., for treatment of an injured elbow.

For 11 days, the Senate's special session had been in recess while McCarthy was in the hospital.

Five Persons Die As B25 Crashes Near Baltimore

Baltimore, Nov. 29 (AP)—Five persons were killed and the sixth critically injured in the crash of an air force B25 in a woods about three miles west of Friendship International Airport last night.

Rescue parties which reached the scene about 12 hours after the crash, found five bodies. A sixth, still alive, was flown to Bolling air force base near Washington in a helicopter. His condition was reported grave.

The plane went down about 10:15 last night, but an air search had to await daylight hours and it took almost an hour for ground parties to reach the wreckage after it was sighted from the air.

The plane was trying to make an emergency landing at Friendship went it went down.

Adenauer Says

Bundesrat seats, instead of the 26 they now hold.

To ward off any Socialist challenge in the courts, Adenauer wants a two-thirds endorsement in both houses of the Federal Parliament for the Paris agreements to raise half a million German troops under the banner of the North Atlantic Alliance.

The election outcome reinforced the chancellor's determination to push through the ratification vote early next year. But the declines in Christian Democratic strength from its high mark in the 1953 national election were a warning to Adenauer that many Germans actively resent his demand that they turn soldier again.

ADENAUER'S controversial agreement with France to "Europeanize" the Saar Valley rated much less attention from the voters than the rearmament problem. The Free Democrats, who through a member of the Federal Coalition waged a fierce campaign against the agreement, scored only moderately. Some observers predicted the party's opposition to the Saar accord soon would fizzle out, which would remove one big obstacle to ratification.

The Christian Democrats' biggest setback came in Hesse, traditionally a socialist and Protestant area. The CDU blamed its losses on socialist charges that rearmament ahead of negotiations with Russia would lead to a new war.

Youth, 15, Safe After Spending Night in Woods

Eugene Kracke, 15, of Liberty, emerged safely from the woods near Claryville on Sunday morning after spending the night sleeping in a sheltered spot while a searching party of 40 combed the area, state police reported.

Young Kracke strolled from the Erts hunting camp on Wildcat Mountain near Claryville about 3 p. m. Sunday, troopers were informed. A searching party of hunters, volunteers from the Grahamsville and Liberty fire departments was formed and searched the area around the camp from 4:30 p. m. Saturday until 5 a. m. Sunday. They were preparing to resume the search at 7 a. m. when the boy walked from the woods, apparently unharmed, near the White Tail Lodge, where he was found by David Cyterg and Grover Smith, both of Woodbourne, and returned to his father at the Erts camp.

Eugene told the searchers that as soon as he realized he was lost Saturday night he found a sheltered place in the woods and went to sleep.

Shipyard Owner

Carr and Sons Funeral Home, 1 Pearl street, Tuesday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock where friends may call. The casket will not be opened. Officers and members of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard, are requested to report at A. Carr and Sons Funeral Home at 1:45 o'clock Wednesday to attend the services. Funeral will be held from the A. Carr and Sons Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Montrepose Cemetery.

He continued with the business which had been established by his father, Conrad Hiltebrant at South Rondout, and during World War 1 and World War 2 his firm was engaged in government work. During World War I the company built sub-chasers at the Rondout creek plant and during World War 2 the company built mine sweepers for the navy.

He was born in Kingston, the son of Conrad and Elizabeth Steinhauser Hiltebrant. After attending local schools he entered Cornell to study naval architecture and on completion of that course entered the business with his father. He was considered an outstanding authority on ship design and during the period of the company's naval shipbuilding contracts he supervised this work at the local yards in Connelly, formerly South Rondout.

IN 1918 when Company M, New York National Guard, had been federalized and the New York State Guard organized he joined the guard and served as lieutenant during World War 1, in addition to his duties at the shipyard which was then engaged in government work. In 1919 when Capt. Everett Fowler, then commanding officer of the guard retired, he was promoted to captain and given command of the local military organization which shortly after the close of World War 1 was changed to the 132nd Ammunition Company, New York National Guard. In 1924 when the local outfit was re-organized and became the 1st Bn. 156th F.A. National Guard, Captain Hiltebrant was promoted to major and he served as commanding officer until his resignation in 1936.

Throughout his entire business career he was associated with the business which had been established by his father in 1868.

GEORGE E. YERRY, JR., business agent of Kingston Metal Trades Council, AFL, mourned the death of Major Hiltebrant today with a tribute to the major's relations with labor unions.

Yerry said 'Major Hiltebrant's death comes as a great shock to our labor unions who consider his loss detrimental, not only to our local yards but to shipyards all over the country.

"His relations with labor unions were excellent and so far as we're concerned if labor laws did not require signed agreements between employer and the union, we never would have needed one with him."

Mrs. Clark Pleads Guilty in Court To Mate's Slaying

Salem, Mass., Nov. 29 (AP)—Lorraine Eaton Clark, 29, pretty mother of three young children, suddenly pleaded guilty today to a charge of second degree murder in the shooting-stabbing death of her husband and was sentenced to life in prison.

The slender, brunette defendant's surprise plea was accepted by the court upon the recommendation of Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg, the prosecutor.

HE TOLD SUPERIOR Court Judge Charles Fairhurst of a plea by Melvin W. Clark, father of the slain man, to save the "wreck" of the family of his son, Melvin W. Clark, Jr., 29.

Judge Fairhurst said, in imposing sentence, that life at the state prison for women (Sherborn) is mandatory by law for second degree murder.

MRS. CLARK STOOD UP as sentence was imposed. Her lips quivered and her eyes became tear filled but she made no outward sound.

Within two minutes she was led from the courtroom by Special Sheriff Roger Wells, followed by her lawyer, C. Francis Leary.

A 3½ page confession by Mrs. Clark, which Cregg had labeled "too lurid" to disclose publicly was submitted to the court for the record. Cregg said it would not be made public, adding "if Judge Fairhurst does not impound it I will."

The young husband was shot twice with a pistol and twice stabbed during Palm Sunday weekend, last April 10-11.

Mrs. Clark reported her husband had disappeared after a bitter quarrel and later sued for divorce.

His unrecognizable body was found in June near the Merrimack river, into which Mrs. Clark said she had dumped it after dragging it from their cottage into the family car. Navy service finger prints established identity.

With Cregg's decision not to divulge details of the statement it appeared likely the motive will not become known.

U. S. Weighs Move

delegates said they looked for the issue to come up this week during debate in the UN Political Committee on the Korean peace settlement deadlock. However, a U. S. delegation spokesman said there has been no decision on how to broach the question.

While the U. S. grappled with the immediate problem of the captive Americans, American and Chinese Nationalist diplomats were reported to have reached substantial agreement on a new treaty—a pact under which the United States would guarantee to shield Formosa, the neighboring Pescadores and perhaps some coastal islands held by the forces of Chiang Kai-shek.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS were said to look on this pact—which is expected to be signed before the end of this year—as a possible first step toward stabilizing conditions in the Formosa area.

It was understood U. S. diplomats believe a formal pact of this sort would discourage Red attempts to conquer Chiang's Formosa stronghold. At the same time, the treaty would strengthen Chiang defensively and would pledge him to avoid what the diplomats term provocative attacks on the Red-held Chinese mainland.

Oneonta Has Snow

Albany, Nov. 29 (AP)—Wet snow and rain today gave New Yorkers some miserable weather to start the week, but the forecasters said the precipitation would taper off during the day as the weather turned colder. The storm dumped up to four inches of wet snow at Oneonta and at some points in northern New York. But rain was reported in many areas, including Buffalo, Rochester, Elmira, Watertown and Glens Falls. State police said all roads were open, although slippery driving was reported around Inlet, in Hamilton county.

Woman Arrested In Assault Case

Lillian Jones, 48, of 14 Ann street, was arrested by James Jones, of the same address, on a third degree assault charge, early Sunday.

The arrest, police said, followed the treatment of James Jones at Kingston Hospital for stab wounds on the left arm.

Officers Everett Emmick and Gerald McCloskey were assigned to investigate after a report from Kingston Hospital at 12:38 a. m., said Jones was being treated there for stab wounds.

At 12:55 a. m., police reported the arrest of the woman. The case was put over until next Saturday when the defendant appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. She had spent the weekend in jail but was paroled pending hearing of the case next Saturday.

Selection of a jury started this morning for the trial of Charles Ostrander, 36, of 19 Foxhall avenue, who was charged with driving while intoxicated after the car he was driving was in collision with a state police patrol car at Albany and Foxhall avenues, Nov. 5.

Five Indictments Returned by Jury

A report was made to County Judge John M. Cashin this morning when the Grand Jury reported five indictments, three sealed and two open.

A bill charging John Volynski of Kingston with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, at the Bush gas station on Hurley avenue was handed up. Charles Gaffney appeared for defendant and a plea of innocent was entered.

The second open bill was one charging David France of Saugerties with violation of Section 1879, Sub. 4, illegal possession of a firearm. A plea of innocent was entered and William D. Brinnier was assigned.

Both defendants were remanded to the custody of the sheriff in the absence of bail.

Army Camp Boom

Fry, Ariz. (AP)—This community is taking on the aspects of a boom town with the reactivation of Ft. Huachuca. Among the new stores are a supermarket, a package liquor store and three firms selling trailers.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 29 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in the early afternoon but with some difficulty.

Gains and losses with a few exceptions spread over a range of around a point.

Volume hit a pace better than three million shares for the day. Friday's total in a strong market was 3,010,000 shares.

Higher with the railroads were the coppers, chemicals, and aircrafts.

About the Folks

Miss Minnie Osterhoudt of 118 Hone street, who has been a patient at Kingston Hospital, is now reported to be recuperating at the Hutton Nursing Home, 172 Pearl street.

Two Men Injured

was a member of St. Peter's Church.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, Regina E. Zeeh (nee Keizer); a daughter, Regina Marie Zeeh; two sons, John and George Zeeh; two brothers, Joseph R. and John P. Zeeh; three sisters, Mrs. Louis Maines, Mrs. Kenneth Marz and Miss Marie Zeeh.

The funeral will be held from the Bruck Funeral Home Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Church, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered at 10:30 a. m. for the repose of his soul. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery. Officers and members of St. Peter's Holy Name Society will meet at the funeral home this evening at 8:15 o'clock to recite the Rosary.

WILLIAM MEINCH, JR., of Bellmore, was fatally injured when accidently shot by a hunting companion he met for the first time Friday night, according to the coroner's and sheriff's office reports.

A bullet from a 38-40 Winchester rifle which accidently discharged in the hands of Edward Joseph Vallarella, 21, of 316 North Corona avenue, Valley Stream, L. I., entered his gluteal region and pierced the frontal right thigh, Coroner McCardle said.

The accident occurred behind the White Stone Inn near Samsonville.

VALLARELLA RAN to a house about a quarter-mile away and summoned help, the coroner said. The Kingston Hospital ambulance conveyed Meinch to that hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Meinch, an employe of the New York Telephone Company in Bellmore, had come to a hunting lodge owned by his grandfather, Alfred Sloverg, at Samsonville, with Stephen Caroone of Bellmore and Frederick Sigurdson of Brooklyn, the sheriff's office reported.

While at the lodge, they met Vallarella, and struck up a friendship which resulted in an invitation to Vallarella, to join their party, according to the report.

On Sunday morning, Meinch and Vallarella left early, and were to meet Caroone later near the White Stone Inn, sheriff's men were told.

As Meinch and Vallarella were walking from the woods near the Inn, Vallarella's gun accidentally discharged, Coroner McCardle said.

Meinch, also a World War 2 veteran, was married and had one daughter. The body was taken today by the McCardle Funeral Home to Bellmore, where funeral services and burial will take place on Wednesday at Long Island National Cemetery.

Dairymen Meet

regulates the movement of all milk and milk products into the New York city area and also the price paid to dairymen for their milk. The producer price is based on a complicated formula that is figured monthly by the market administration.

Dr. C. J. Blanford, market administrator for the milk shed, is among the officials scheduled to speak. He will disccuss milk price prospects for the coming year tomorrow.

Representatives of four milk cooperatives will serve as chairmen of seperate sessions. They are Gilbert Cargin, East Meredith, N. Y., of the Eastern Milk Producers; Edwin Ferber, Jeffersonville, N. Y., Mutual Federation of Independent Producers; John Holloway, Amsterdam, N. Y., Metropolitan Milk Producers Bargaining Agency; and A. Morelle Cheney, New York State City Dairymen's League.

Faculty members of Pennsylvania State University, Cornell, the University of Connecticut and the University of Vermont will assist in the discussions.

Other topics fixed for discussion include the dairy outlook, the entire agricultural situation, and the duties of cooperatives.

Senator Asks End of Debate

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy proposed today that the Senate end its censure debate at 3 p. m. Wednesday. He said he was prepared for whatever the Senate might do.

"In the interest of the overall national welfare, I suggest that no good can be achieved by continuing this debate," McCarthy told his colleagues.

He said he had decided on the speech while he was in the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., for treatment of an injured elbow.

For 11 days, the Senate's special session had been in recess while McCarthy was in the hospital.

Five Persons Die As B25 Crashes Near Baltimore

Baltimore, Nov. 29 (AP)—Five persons were killed and the sixth critically injured in the crash of an air force B25 in a woods about three miles west of Friendship International Airport last night.

Rescue parties which reached the scene about 12 hours after the crash, found five bodies. A sixth, still alive, was flown to Bolling air force base near Washington in a helicopter. His condition was reported grave.

The plane went down about 10:15 last night, but an air search had to await daylight hours and it took almost an hour for ground parties to reach the wreckage after it was sighted from the air.

The plane was trying to make an emergency landing at Friendship went it went down.

Adenauer Says

Bundesrat seats, instead of the 26 they now hold.

To ward off any Socialist challenge in the courts, Adenauer wants a two-thirds endorsement in both houses of the Federal Parliament for the Paris agreements to raise half a million German troops under the banner of the North Atlantic Alliance.

The election outcome reinforced the chancellor's determination to push through the ratification vote early next year. But the declines in Christian Democratic strength from its high mark in the 1953 national election were a warning to Adenauer that many Germans actively resent his demand that they turn soldier again.

ADENAUER'S controversial agreement with France to "Europeanize" the Saar Valley rated much less attention from the voters than the rearmament problem. The Free Democrats, who through a member of the Federal Coalition waged a fierce campaign against the agreement, scored only moderately. Some observers predicted the party's opposition to the Saar accord soon would fizzle out, which would remove one big obstacle to ratification.

The Christian Democrats' biggest setback came in Hesse, traditionally a socialist and Protestant area. The CDU blamed its losses on socialist charges that rearmament ahead of negotiations with Russia would lead to a new war.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 29, 1954

INTER-AMERICAN SHOWROOM

The United States does more than $7 billion worth of trade a year with Latin America, a greater volume than with any other part of the world. Consequently, any project designed seriously to foster further growth of that trade merits broad support.

The new Inter-American trade and cultural center at Miami appears to be such a project. This ambitious development is aimed at promoting trade relations among the Americas by providing a spectacular display case for both U. S. and Latin-American wares and by affording businessmen and government people a chance to rub elbows both casually and officially in a friendly setting.

Now in the financing stage, the Inter-American center is planned as a privately operated but publicly guided $200-million project. It would occupy an 1800-acre site on the northern edge of Biscayne Bay, in the heart of the Miami area's most recent population growth.

Sponsors of the center envisage it as a kind of world's fair on the New York-Chicago-San Francisco pattern, except that it would be a continuing, ever-changing exposition. The center would take full advantage of Miami's climate and lush vegetation to give the project a dazzling architectural scheme in a subtropical background.

Business analysts who have studied the plan consider it financially feasible. Noting the million-plus population of Florida's "Gold Coast" on the Atlantic, the several million tourists who pour into the region every year, and Miami's accessibility from the whole Western Hemisphere (it is near the population center), these specialists foresee an average attendance of 10 million visitors a year on a continuing basis.

The planners have tried to learn from the successes and failures of other fairs. They want their project studded with attractions like beaches, boating facilities, picnic areas. They want the industrial exhibits so deftly designed and unified that the visitor will be irresistibly drawn through the entire fair.

If these features can give the center a solid core of attendance, the sponsors are confident the project will be self-supporting, and that both U. S. and Latin-American manufacturers and merchants will find the center an unparalleled "showroom" and meeting place.

Besides this underlying serious trade purpose, the Inter-American center is counted upon to develop and improve cultural relations among the Americas. It is to become a sort of "international house" of the Western Hemisphere, where greater understanding may flourish among men who have not always understood one another.

Congress voiced its official approval of the project by adopting a resolution affirming the "prime necessity" for such a center. The State of Florida created a special center authority to develop the plan. Latin-American nations have given every sign of eager support and participation.

It will be a good thing for this country and for our Latin neighbors when the Inter-American center gets "over the hump" and becomes a reality.

A BITTER LESSON

We heard of an instance the other day where a state auditor charged that a certain county official had embezzled $8,000 over a period of several years. What makes it astonishing is that the same official had many years earlier been found guilty of embezzling county funds by a jury, but had been subsequently returned to office five more times.

To be sure, the judge and then the Supreme Court of the state had set aside the verdict of guilty, on the ground that absence of certain vital testimony created a reasonable doubt. But the voters seemed all too ready to seize upon that "doubt."

Now they have learned a bitter lesson. And it is one many American voters could well heed. We have had altogether too many instances in this country of electing men to public office who either have criminal taint on their records or are actually in jail when chosen.

And the notion, often advanced for lesser offenses than crimes, that voter endorsement somehow absolves a man of wrongdoing is a quaint one which ought to go into the discard for good.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WHY ASIA WENT NEUTRAL

Perhaps the most difficult problem to solve is the neutrality of the Asiatic countries. In 1945, all the Asiatic countries were pro-American; in 1954 no Asiatic country can be defined as pro-American except possibly the Philippines. Japan would like to be pro-American but geographic necessities cannot be ignored by a country that can, at any time, be conquered. The mistakes of Teheran and Yalta plague us now.

The decisive factor in the loss of American prestige in Asia was the Korean War which we could have won but lost. There are those, including General Douglas MacArthur, who believe that it was deliberately lost. General George E. Stratemeyer has testified:

"General Stratemeyer. It is contrary to everything that every military commander that I have been associated with or from all of our history—he (MacArthur) has never been in a position where he could not win the war he started to win. That is not American. . . . And who did it—I don't know. I know that General MacArthur's hands were tied, I am sure, not by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but by the then State Department. I make that as my opinion, and I still believe it.

"Mr. Carpenter (Jenner Committee Counsel). Did members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff visit Tokyo quite frequently?

"General Stratemeyer. Yes, sir.

"Mr. Carpenter. Did they ever clarify the policy that was expected?

"General Stratemeyer. They did their best to; yes, sir. I do not think General MacArthur was ever satisfied that he had a constructive mission where he could go ahead and win. When I make that statement, I am not criticizing the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They had instructions, I am sure, from higher authority and those conferences were always pleasant. . . ."

Further, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Carpenter. What was the effect of the relief of General MacArthur on the command?

"General Stratemeyer. Well, I cried. I think the whole command, the morale dropped, it went way down, people could not believe it, a soldier could not believe it, an airman could not believe it, a sailor could not believe it. Everybody loved General MacArthur out there and I had never run into a man that served under him that didn't love him, and right out of a clear sky, he gets summarily dismissed. I know the reaction was great with the Japanese, too.

"Mr. Carpenter. There is no question but what MacArthur wanted to win the war; is that not right?

"General Stratemeyer. That is correct, sir. . . ."

He continued: ". . . This was losing our commander who was the most courageous, bravest, senior commander that ever existed, and they fired him summarily without even giving him a chance to say goodby to his command."

In Asia, "face," which can be translated as abiding prestige, counts for much more than it does in the United States. When General MacArthur was summarily dimissed, not only did he lose face, but the United States lost face. The reason is that is was then believed that the United States shamed its great senior commander to please the British. General Stratemeyer now has testified that this view is correct. He said:

". . . As I recall, the reply (to MacArthur's request for permission to bomb north of the Yalu) stated that they had some agreement with the British not to violate Manchuria without consulting the British. I am sure such a signal came in."

In all Asiatic countries the British were disliked because of colonialism and their attitude of racial superiority. Asiatics turned to the United States as a country that did not engage in colonialism, that represented the concept of national independence. When Asiastics were forced to believe by the course of events that the American policy toward them was determined by Great Britain, they lost faith in the United States. This has been true in Korea, Indonesia, India and to a degree in Indochina.

If the United States is to regain its influence in Asia, it must overcome the effects of the Korean War.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

TREATMENT FOR CERVICAL DISK

You are reading and hearing much these days about cervical (neck) disks — the little round plates of cartilage between each of the bones of the backbone—which may become flattened or protrude, allowing pressure to occur on the neck and shoulders. Many of these cases which have severe pain are treated by operation in which the disk is partially removed which alleviates the pain and pressure in the neck and shoulder region.

Unfortunately there have been many cases in which the symptoms have returned after several months or even years and another operation becomes necessary. That many of these painful necks and shoulders can get relief from methods other than operation is stated by Drs. G. M. Martin and K. B. Corbin in Archives of Physical Medicine.

"Many patients having a syndrome (group of sypmtoms) suggestive of protrusion of a cervical intervertebral disk are referred to the section of physical medicine and rehabilitation of the Mayo Clinic for a trial period of conservative treatment (no operation). Treatment included relief of the neck and shoulder pain by the use of traction (lifting off the pressure caused by the disk by means of various types of harness), application of heat and massage, short-wave or radiant heat."

The group studied included 42 men and 19 women, ages ranging from 20 to 70 and average age about 45. Treatment included 30 minutes of heat from a 250-watt reflector heat lamp, followed by deep stroking and kneading massage to the muscles of the neck, shoulder, and upper arm. Traction was applied in various amounts, depending on each patient's condition and his ability to remain relaxed under treatment, the average pull being 60 pounds applied from one to 3 minutes twice daily.

What were the results? "Immediate results often included dramatic relief of pain. Forty-one (67.2 per cent) patients had definite improvement during the initial period of treatment. Six months to five years after the first period of treatment, 77.1 per cent of the patients had definite improvement, 3.2 per cent showed no change to slight improvement, and 19.7 per cent of the patients required surgical treatment.

These physicians conclude that an ambulatory (able to continue walking about) program of physiotherapy, including vertical cervical traction, provides satisfactory treatment for the majority of patients suspected of having protrusion of a disk in the neck. However, it must be remembered that if no progress occurs from physical therapy treatment, operation to relieve pain may be necessary.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washington (NEA) — President Eisenhower cribbed and disguised a line from Gen. Douglas MacArthur when introducing retired Maj.-Gen. Frederick A. Irving, new head of the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods at the first ACTION luncheon in Washington.

"We old soldiers are, after all, supposed to fade away," said Ike. "But we just reappear."

AT HIS FIRST PRESS conference since the big rhubarb over his "hound dog" crack during the campaign, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson took a sharp dig at reporters. He was discussing international tensions, and said the U. S. should not add heat to them.

"You guys, you know, are guilty of adding heat to them sometimes, too," said the secretary, deadpan. Then, he added: "But you usually get some fall guy to hang it on."

THE FINAL REPORT of the old Loyalty Review Board gives a clue to the number of Truman administration employes fired or forced to resign under the Eisenhower administration security program.

When it went out of business May 28, 1953, the board had 1776 loyalty investigation cases uncompleted. They were turned over to the various government agencies for handling under the new security clearance regulations.

The Civil Service Commission's consolidated report on security cases handled between May 28, 1953, and June 30, 1954, shows 1743 files of government employes containing information on subversive activities or associations. There is no breakdown on the number of these who were fired or who were forced to resign.

But the total is by coincidence very close to the number of Truman administration loyalty cases turned over to the Eisenhower administration.

AMERICAN Federation of Labor's League for Political Education has come up with an analysis that the unions will next year have 23 more friends in the House and four more friends in the Senate than they had during the 83rd Congress—but they still won't have a majority.

According to the LLPE count, there were 153 prolabor congressmen in the House last year, and 265 antilabor. Next year there will be 176 prolabor and 235 antilabor.

The Senate score was 36 prolabor to 56 antilabor. Next Congress it will be 40 prolabor to 52 antilabor.

PEDRO ESTRADA, chief of Venezuela's FBI, visiting J. Edgar Hoover and other U. S. security officials, revealed an untold story of how the Communists tried to break up the Caracas Inter-American conference last March.

Estrada says the Venezuelan secret police discovered "direct orders from Moscow to sabotage, dynamite, disturb or otherwise panic the Caracas conference." It was attended by 1000 officials from 21 North and South American republics.

"We found 20 professors in Caracas working under direct orders from Moscow," says Estrada. "Their job was to teach Venezuelan professors that the doctrines of Lenin and Stalin were superior to those of Simon Bolivar and George Washington.

"By taking advantage of every existing law to oust these people, we have fewer than 3000 active Communists in Venezuela today. Ten years ago there were over 80,000. The Soviet charge d'affaires and the Czech consul were kicked out of Venezuela in 1951 by President Marcos Perez Jiminez."

TREASURY DEPARTMENT is stepping up its program to sell its H savings bonds to salaried workers, small investors and particularly to older people who may not live out the ten-year period required for E-bond maturity. The H bonds, which come in $500, $1,000 $5,000 and $10,000 denominations, pay interest semiannually.

Although H bonds have been available since April, 1952, less than $1 billion worth have been sold, as compared to over $36 billion of E bonds outstanding. Treasury officials are still trying to work out plans which will permit H bonds to be held in personal trust funds, and sold under payroll deductions as the E bonds are now sold.

TEMPERANCE OFFICIALS claim they have won more than half the local option elections held since the repeal of prohibition, 20 years ago. There have been over 36,000 local option elections, and the drys have won 21,000 of them, according to Dr. Caradine R. Hooton, executive secretary of Methodist Board of Temperance.

The breakdown on 920 local option elections in 21 states during the past year shows 333 voting dry, no change; 439 voting wet, no change; 84 wet voting dry, and 64 dry voting wet. The net dry gain is 20 elections. At least 25 million Americans now live in dry areas.

Reply to Question Gives View of Emotions in Censure Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 29 — Emotion—which means feeling instead of thinking—seems to have become dominant on both sides not only outside but inside the Senate in dealing with the dispute over the "censure" of Senator McCarthy.

This correspondent has just obtained a copy of a letter written by one of the ablest lawyers in the country who had been asked by a perplexed friend—a prominent American business man recently returned from a long trip abroad—to give him privately a detached opinion on the merits of the case. Indicating clearly the difficulty of rendering an objective judgment on one of the biggest controversies of the day, the attorney's reply is a worth-while exposition of the cross-currents of the affair. It reads as follows:

"My answer depends upon whether I approach the question purely emotionally or critically as a lawyer. In my opinion, the tragic difficulty with the whole McCarthy problem is that it is being judged and debated purely emotionaly and opinionately and, consequently, the basic issues are completely ignored. McCarthy has made himself personally the issue. His opponents have joined issue on McCarthy, the individual. Both have lost sight of the principles involved and hence the mess. Once you forsake principles for persons you find yourself involved in an emotional chaos.

"Personally, I hold no brief for McCarthy as a person. I think he has been built up as a Frankenstein by his adversaries. They have given him a public significance that he personally does not warrant and never could have acquired by his own efforts.

"As a lawyer, I am fearful that the present proceedings will reslt in fundamental innovations in Senate procedure by establishing new precedents, departing from time-honored procedures, which will affect adversely the dignity and effectiveness of the Senate. I don't believe McCarthy, as an individual, is worth this sacrifice of principle and precedent.

"Let me explain: Examining the Watkins report—and that report is the only issue now before the Senate—McCarthy as a person and as a senator has not been put in issue by the Watkins report and could not be, as that is a question solely for the electorate of the sovereign state of Wisconsin.

"First: If McCarthy refused to accept the 'invitation' of a Senate committee to appear 'if he chose,' as the Watskins report concedes, that cannot be contempt. Contempt is a technical offense—the refusal to comply with the valid orders or subpoena of a committee or the refusal to answer legally competent questions. There is nothing mandatory about an invitation, and a refusal to accept an invitation cannot be a contempt.

"Many, many senators have and are constantly not 'accepting such invitations.' If that is contempt, why not try all offenders for the same offense? Do we want to set the precedent that any senator must testify before a committtee if invited to do so? If so, why not change the Senate rules? Even if now changed, you could not condemn McCarthy ex post facto, as that certainly is not the rule or practice of the Senate up to now.

"Furthermore, the subject matter about which McCarthy was 'invited' to testify was in his own income tax returns and his use of his political contributions. Both have been investigated by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Department of Justice under Democratic and Republican administrations with the finding that no evidence of legal violations were found. McCarthy made full disclosure to both agencies. Furthermore, failure to properly report and pay income taxes is a crime over which the Department of Justice has exclusive jurisdiction.

"Second: McCarthy has used language unbecoming, in my opinion, of what a U. S. senator should use, but is he alone in this impropriety? I can cite too many examples of even more unrestrained language being used by many senators. If such language be made a punishable offense, then all offending senators should be similarly cited for censure. They have not been. Why? Because up to now such undesired language has not been an offense against any law or rule. Even in the present debate on the Watkins report, 'censurable' language is being used by several senators seemingly without any disapproval.

"Big business has been insulted and smeared, in more violent language than McCarthy has used, by many congressional committees and on the floors of both Houses, and no one has uttered a word of protest. We have apparently become very sensitive to the sensitivities of 'some groupes' only. Why not equal protection to all?

"'Even Senator Case has now reversed himself on this question in the light of Secretary Stevens' recent letter.

"Third: The remaining charge that Senator McCarthy has encouraged government employes to violate their department and superior orders in revealing 'restricted' information is controversial, but it would be interesting to have the courts settle the question if an employe can be ordered to refuse to reveal his knowledge of a crime. Does his immunity of acting under superior's orders exonerate him from giving evidence of a crime? Suppose the information in his possession, no matter how acquired, is evidence of treason or of giving aid and assistance to the enemy, can the possessor of such evidence refuse to disclose it? If so, our criminal laws will have to be amended.

"And how about our position at the Nuremberg trials? Did we not take the position that acting under superior orders was no excuse for committing or condoning an immoral act—an act against the conscience of mankind?

"The fact that all these principles of our law and traditional procedures will be rejected, just to 'censure'—slap the wrist—of a personally disliked person is a careless rejection of practice and an ex post facto judgment—to be applied against one person, not against all similar offenders. This would be a government of men, no matter what men or why, not laws.

"Remember, the Watkins report charges no crime against McCarthy. If a crime has been committed, it is the duty of the Senate to report the same to the Department of Justice, not just spank the offender. Furthermore, censure is a futile and innocuous remedy because it accomplishes nothing. McCarthy will continue just the same — probably even denouncing the Senate more violently.

"Being a lawyer, I must view this whole procedure in this manner. I do not want to join a lynching party against a person in whom I have no interest. I am more interested in the prestige of the Senate than I am in the man, or any man."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Some sentimentalists and some selfish cynics wince when I say the present Supreme Court of the United States is a low-grade outfit not only by comparison with some courts of the past but on the records of its personnel. But I am dead right and once the decline of the whole federal judiciary is forced into the consciousness of the Public we will have made a start toward rehabilitation.

You can't look to the lawyers for any help in this. Few of them have the civic conscience or patriotism, and the moral courage, to stick their heads up to be whacked by panoplied ward heelers, lame-duck jobholders and misanthropic mediocrities who were so paltry in their profession that their mean souls yearned for the power to reward their friends and hurt their enemies and the job-security thus conferred on them.

You may think I am not qualified to criticize the Supreme Court. If so, then would you be willing to consider a criticism written by a professor of political science at Johns Hopkins and published in the Virginia Law Review of the University of Virginia?

The author is Carl Brent Swisher, whose career as a teacher of political science and a student of the Constitution dates from a hitch at Columbia in 1930 down to the present except for two years as an assistant to the attorney general under the New Deal.

He says: "The Supreme Court looks back upon two decades of bizarre behavior. It stands exposed as a power group competing with other groups wielding political power in our society."

That is why so many lawyers say confidentially that they just can't advise clients with any confidence on the law and the Constitution.

"Although, perforce, a majority votes as a unit to decide one way or another, the several members have so many times arrived at decisions by different modes of reasoning and have each so criticized the mode employed by the others that the concept of the 'oneness' of the court has been largely destroyed. Many of the individual justices have joined in debunking what Federal Circuit Judge Jerome Frank has called 'The Cult of the Robe' to the end of revealing not only that the court is a power group but that individual justices are themselves competitors for power and the individual prestige of determining the course of legal rationalization."

That is gumbo language but it will scan if you will stay with it instead of turning to the funnies. And let me point out that the very ponderosity of such wordage makes it necessary for someone to put such urgent ideas into newspapers. I am reminded of a time when Bill Davenport of Collier's was editing a series of articles by Gene Tunney and told a friend he was on the rock pile making little ones out of big ones. Well we all were young once.

The professor then goes into ancient situations in which litigants who lost accused the court of playing politics, and brings us down to the actual packing of the court by Roosevelt even though his court-packing plan was beaten in Congress. This plan by the way was so consistent with the plan which Col. E. M. House set forth in his revolutionary prophecy "Philip Dru: administrator" that I truly believe that Roosevelt got it from House, who was his "ad-

INTER-AMERICAN SHOWROOM

The United States does more than $7 billion worth of trade a year with Latin America, a greater volume than with any other part of the world. Consequently, any project designed seriously to foster further growth of that trade merits broad support.

The new Inter-American trade and cultural center at Miami appears to be such a project. This ambitious development is aimed at promoting trade relations among the Americas by providing a spectacular display case for both U. S. and Latin-American wares and by affording businessmen and government people a chance to rub elbows both casually and officially in a friendly setting.

Now in the financing stage, the Inter-American center is planned as a privately operated but publicly guided $200-million project. It would occupy an 1800-acre site on the northern edge of Biscayne Bay, in the heart of the Miami area's most recent population growth.

Sponsors of the center envisage it as a kind of world's fair on the New York-Chicago-San Francisco pattern, except that it would be a continuing, ever-changing exposition. The center would take full advantage of Miami's climate and lush vegetation to give the project a dazzling architectural scheme in a subtropical background.

Business analysts who have studied the plan consider it financially feasible. Noting the million-plus population of Florida's "Gold Coast" on the Atlantic, the several million tourists who pour into the region every year, and Miami's accessibility from the whole Western Hemisphere (it is near the population center), these specialists foresee an average attendance of 10 million visitors a year on a continuing basis.

The planners have tried to learn from the successes and failures of other fairs. They want their project studded with attractions like beaches, boating facilities, picnic areas. They want the industrial exhibits so deftly designed and unified that the visitor will be irresistibly drawn through the entire fair.

If these features can give the center a solid core of attendance, the sponsors are confident the project will be self-supporting, and that both U. S. and Latin-American manufacturers and merchants will find the center an unparalleled "showroom" and meeting place.

Besides this underlying serious trade purpose, the Inter-American center is counted upon to develop and improve cultural relations among the Americas. It is to become a sort of "international house" of the Western Hemisphere, where greater understanding may flourish among men who have not always understood one another.

Congress voiced its official approval of the project by adopting a resolution affirming the "prime necessity" for such a center. The State of Florida created a special center authority to develop the plan. Latin-American nations have given every sign of eager support and participation.

It will be a good thing for this country and for our Latin neighbors when the Inter-American center gets "over the hump" and becomes a reality.

A BITTER LESSON

We heard of an instance the other day where a state auditor charged that a certain county official had embezzled $8,000 over a period of several years. What makes it astonishing is that the same official had many years earlier been found guilty of embezzling county funds by a jury, but had been subsequently returned to office five more times.

To be sure, the judge and then the Supreme Court of the state had set aside the verdict of guilty, on the ground that absence of certain vital testimony created a reasonable doubt. But the voters seemed all too ready to seize upon that "doubt."

Now they have learned a bitter lesson. And it is one many American voters could well heed. We have had altogether too many instances in this country of electing men to public office who either have criminal taint on their records or are actually in jail when chosen.

And the notion, often advanced for lesser offenses than crimes, that voter endorsement somehow absolves a man of wrongdoing is a quaint one which ought to go into the discard for good.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

WHY ASIA WENT NEUTRAL

Perhaps the most difficult problem to solve is the neutrality of the Asiatic countries. In 1945, all the Asiatic countries were pro-American; in 1954 no Asiatic country can be defined as pro-American except possibly the Philippines. Japan would like to be pro-American but geographic necessities cannot be ignored by a country that can, at any time, be conquered. The mistakes of Teheran and Yalta plague us now.

The decisive factor in the loss of American prestige in Asia was the Korean War which we could have won but lost. There are those, including General Douglas MacArthur, who believe that it was deliberately lost. General George E. Stratemeyer has testified:

"General Stratemeyer. It is contrary to everything that every military commander that I have been associated with or from all of our history—he (MacArthur) has never been in a position where he could not win the war he started to win. That is not American. . . . And who did it—I don't know. I know that General MacArthur's hands were tied, I am sure, not by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but by the then State Department. I make that as my opinion, and I still believe it.

"Mr. Carpenter (Jenner Committee Counsel). Did members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff visit Tokyo quite frequently?

"General Stratemeyer. Yes, sir.

"Mr. Carpenter. Did they ever clarify the policy that was expected?

"General Stratemeyer. They did their best to; yes, sir. I do not think General MacArthur was ever satisfied that he had a constructive mission where he could go ahead and win. When I make that statement, I am not criticizing the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They had instructions, I am sure, from higher authority and those conferences were always pleasant. . . ."

Further, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Carpenter. What was the effect of the relief of General MacArthur on the command?

"General Stratemeyer. Well, I cried. I think the whole command, the morale dropped, it went way down, people could not believe it, a soldier could not believe it, an airman could not believe it, a sailor could not believe it. Everybody loved General MacArthur out there and I had never run into a man that served under him that didn't love him, and right out of a clear sky, he gets summarily dismissed. I know the reaction was great with the Japanese, too.

"Mr. Carpenter. There is no question but what MacArthur wanted to win the war; is that not right?

"General Stratemeyer. That is correct, sir. . . ."

He continued: ". . . This was losing our commander who was the most courageous, bravest, senior commander that ever existed, and they fired him summarily without even giving him a chance to say goodby to his command."

In Asia, "face," which can be translated as abiding prestige, counts for much more than it does in the United States. When General MacArthur was summarily dimissed, not only did he lose face, but the United States lost face. The reason is that is was then believed that the United States shamed its great senior commander to please the British. General Stratemeyer now has testified that this view is correct. He said:

". . . . As I recall, the reply (to MacArthur's request for permission to bomb north of the Yalu) stated that they had some agreement with the British not to violate Manchuria without consulting the British. I am sure such a signal came in."

In all Asiatic countries the British were disliked because of colonialism and their attitude of racial superiority. Asiatics turned to the United States as a country that did not engage in colonialism, that represented the concept of national independence. When Asiastics were forced to believe by the course of events that the American policy toward them was determined by Great Britain, they lost faith in the United States. This has been true in Korea, Indonesia, India and to a degree in Indochina.

If the United States is to regain its influence in Asia, it must overcome the effects of the Korean War.

TREATMENT FOR CERVICAL DISK

You are reading and hearing much these days about cervical (neck) disks — the little round plates of cartilage between each of the bones of the backbone—which may become flattened or protrude, allowing pressure to occur on the neck and shoulders. Many of these cases which have severe pain are treated by operation in which the disk is partially removed which alleviates the pain and pressure in the neck and shoulder region.

Unfortunately there have been many cases in which the symptoms have returned after several months or even years and another operation becomes necessary. That many of these painful necks and shoulders can get relief from methods other than operation is stated by Drs. G. M. Martin and K. B. Corbin in Archives of Physical Medicine.

"Many patients having a syndrome (group of sypmtoms) suggestive of protrusion of a cervical intervertebral disk are referred to the section of physical medicine and rehabilitation of the Mayo Clinic for a trial period of conservative treatment (no operation). Treatment included relief of the neck and shoulder pain by the use of traction (lifting off the pressure caused by the disk by means of various types of harness), application of heat and massage, short-wave or radiant heat."

The group studied included 42 men and 19 women, ages ranging from 20 to 70 and average age about 45. Treatment included 30 minutes of heat from a 250-watt reflector heat lamp, followed by deep stroking and kneading massage to the muscles of the neck, shoulder, and upper arm. Traction was applied in various amounts, depending on each patient's condition and his ability to remain relaxed under treatment, the average pull being 60 pounds applied from one to 3 minutes twice daily.

What were the results? "Immediate results often included dramatic relief of pain. Forty-one (67.2 per cent) patients had definite improvement during the initial period of treatment. Six months to five years after the first period of treatment, 77.1 per cent of the patients had definite improvement, 3.2 per cent showed no change to slight improvement, and 19.7 per cent of the patients required surgical treatment.

These physicians conclude that an ambulatory (able to continue walking about) program of physiotherapy, including vertical cervical traction, provides satisfactory treatment for the majority of patients suspected of having protrusion of a disk in the neck. However, it must be remembered that if no progress occurs from physical therapy treatment, operation to relieve pain may be necessary.

Reply to Question Gives View of Emotions in Censure Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 29 — Emotion—which means feeling instead of thinking—seems to have become dominant on both sides not only outside but inside the Senate in dealing with the dispute over the "censure" of Senator McCarthy.

This correspondent has just obtained a copy of a letter written by one of the ablest lawyers in the country who had been asked by a perplexed friend—a prominent American business man recently returned from a long trip abroad—to give him privately a detached opinion on the merits of the case. Indicating clearly the difficulty of rendering an objective judgment on one of the biggest controversies of the day, the attorney's reply is a worth-while exposition of the cross-currents of the affair. It reads as follows:

"My answer depends upon whether I approach the question purely emotionally or critically as a lawyer. In my opinion, the tragic difficulty with the whole McCarthy problem is that it is being judged and debated purely emotionaly and opinionately and, consequently, the basic issues are completely ignored. McCarthy has made himself personally the issue. His opponents have joined issue on McCarthy, the individual. Both have lost sight of the principles involved and hence the mess. Once you forsake principles for persons you find yourself involved in an emotional chaos.

"Personally, I hold no brief for McCarthy as a person. I think he has been built up as a Frankenstein by his adversaries. They have given him a public significance that he personally does not warrant and never could have acquired by his own efforts.

"As a lawyer, I am fearful that the present proceedings will reslt in fundamental innovations in Senate procedure by establishing new precedents, departing from time-honored procedures, which will affect adversely the dignity and effectiveness of the Senate. I don't believe McCarthy, as an individual, is worth this sacrifice of principle and precedent.

"Let me explain: Examining the Watkins report—and that report is the only issue now before the Senate—McCarthy as a person and as a senator has not been put in issue by the Watkins report and could not be, as that is a question solely for the electorate of the sovereign state of Wisconsin.

"First: If McCarthy refused to accept the 'invitation' of a Senate committee to appear 'if he chose,' as the Watskins report concedes, that cannot be contempt. Contempt is a technical offense—the refusal to comply with the valid orders or subpoena of a committee or the refusal to answer legally competent questions. There is nothing mandatory about an invitation, and a refusal to accept an invitation cannot be a contempt.

"Many, many senators have and are constantly not 'accepting such invitations.' If that is contempt, why not try all offenders for the same offense? Do we want to set the precedent that any senator must testify before a committtee if invited to do so? If so, why not change the Senate rules? Even if now changed, you could not condemn McCarthy ex post facto, as that certainly is not the rule or practice of the Senate up to now.

"Furthermore, the subject matter about which McCarthy was 'invited' to testify was in his own income tax returns and his use of his political contributions. Both have been investigated by the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Department of Justice under Democratic and Republican administrations with the finding that no evidence of legal violations were found. McCarthy made full disclosure to both agencies. Furthermore, failure to properly report and pay income taxes is a crime over which the Department of Justice has exclusive jurisdiction.

"Second: McCarthy has used language unbecoming, in my opinion, of what a U. S. senator should use, but is he alone in this impropriety? I can cite too many examples of even more unrestrained language being used by many senators. If such language be made a punishable offense, then all offending senators should be similarly cited for censure. They have not been. Why? Because up to now such undesired language has not been an offense against any law or rule. Even in the present debate on the Watkins report, 'censurable' language is being used by several senators seemingly without any disapproval.

"Big business has been insulted and smeared, in more violent language than McCarthy has used, by many congressional committees and on the floors of both Houses, and no one has uttered a word of protest. We have apparently become very sensitive to the sensitivities of 'some groupes' only. Why not equal protection to all?

"Even Senator Case has now reversed himself on this question in the light of Secretary Stevens' recent letter.

"Third: The remaining charge that Senator McCarthy has encouraged government employes to violate their department and superior orders in revealing 'restricted' information is controversial, but it would be interesting to have the courts settle the question if an employe can be ordered to refuse to reveal his knowledge of a crime. Does his immunity of acting under superior's orders exonerate him from giving evidence of a crime? Suppose the information in his possession, no matter how acquired, is evidence of treason or of giving aid and assistance to the enemy, can the possessor of such evidence refuse to disclose it? If so, our criminal laws will have to be amended.

"And how about our position at the Nuremberg trials? Did we not take the position that acting under superior orders was no excuse for committing or condoning an immoral act—an act against the conscience of mankind?

"The fact that all these principles of our law and traditional procedures will be rejected, just to 'censure'—slap the wrist—of a personally disliked person is a careless rejection of practice and an ex post facto judgment—to be applied against one person, not against all similar offenders. This would be a government of men, no matter what men or why, not laws.

"Remember, the Watkins report charges no crime against McCarthy. If a crime has been committed, it is the duty of the Senate to report the same to the Department of Justice, not just spank the offender. Furthermore, censure is a futile and innocuous remedy because it accomplishes nothing. McCarthy will continue just the same — probably even denouncing the Senate more violently.

"Being a lawyer, I must view this whole procedure in this manner. I do not want to join a lynching party against a person in whom I have no interest. I am more interested in the prestige of the Senate than I am in the man, or any man."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Some sentimentalists and some selfish cynics wince when I say the present Supreme Court of the United States is a low-grade outfit not only by comparison with some courts of the past but on the records of its personnel. But I am dead right and once the decline of the whole federal judiciary is forced into the consciousness of the Public we will have made a start toward rehabilitation.

You can't look to the lawyers for any help in this. Few of them have the civic conscience or patriotism, and the moral courage, to stick their heads up to be whacked by panoplied ward heelers, lame-duck jobholders and misanthropic mediocrities who were so paltry in their profession that their mean souls yearned for the power to reward their friends and hurt their enemies and the job-security thus conferred on them.

You may think I am not qualified to criticize the Supreme Court. If so, then would you be willing to consider a criticism written by a professor of political science at Johns Hopkins and published in the Virginia Law Review of the University of Virginia?

The author is Carl Brent Swisher, whose career as a teacher of political science and a student of the Constitution dates from a hitch at Columbia in 1930 down to the present except for two years as an assistant to the attorney general under the New Deal.

He says: "The Supreme Court looks back upon two decades of bizarre behavior. It stands exposed as a power group competing with other groups wielding political power in our society."

That is why so many lawyers say confidentially that they just can't advise clients with any confidence on the law and the Constitution.

"Although, perforce, a majority votes as a unit to decide one way or another, the several members have so many times arrived at decisions by different modes of reasoning and have each so criticized the mode employed by the others that the concept of the 'oneness' of the court has been largely destroyed. Many of the individual justices have joined in debunking what Federal Circuit Judge Jerome Frank has called 'The Cult of the Robe' to the end of revealing not only that the court is a power group but that individual justices are themselves competitors for power and the individual prestige of determining the course of legal rationalization."

That is gumbo language but it will scan if you will stay with it instead of turning to the funnies. And let me point out that the very ponderosity of such wordage makes it necessary for someone to put such urgent ideas into newspapers. I am reminded of a time when Bill Davenport of Collier's was editing a series of articles by Gene Tunney and told a friend he was on the rock pile making little ones out of big ones. Well we all were young once.

The professor then goes into ancient situations in which litigants who lost accused the court of playing politics, and brings us down to the actual packing of the court by Roosevelt even though his court-packing plan was beaten in Congress. This plan by the way was so consistent with the plan which Col. E. M. House set forth in his revolutionary prophecy "Philip Dru: administrator" that I truly believe that Roosevelt got it from House, who was his "adviser" early in the New Deal.

Now Professor Swisher recalls that after Chief Justice Stone died and Fred Vinson, the old wool-hat horse-player and first-baseman from Center College, was appointed to harmonize the bunch, one Hell of a fight broke out which came almost to rough-house right there on the bench.

"His appointment," says Professor Swisher, "was punctuated by a tirade by Justice Jackson in a letter to the judiciary committees of the two houses of Congress about a feud between himself and Justice Black who was alleged to have maneuvered to prevent Jackson's appointment as chief justice. Referring to what he regarded as an instance of misconduct on Black's part which he, Jackson, had criticized in a judicial opinion, he remarked that if Black ever repeated the performance, he would make his earlier opinion look like 'a letter of recommendation.' Such strife builds ill will that carries over into the handling of future cases and makes it difficult or impossible for the justices thereafter to work together in harmony. Justice Jackson had no monopoly on intemperate or undiplomatic criticism of the work of other justices.

"Justice Frankfurter writes multiple concurring and dissenting opinions in cases in which he is not chosen as the spokesman of the court. He often does so in a tone to imply that of all the justices only he knows the state of the law. His performance must be exceedingly irritating to justices who have the temerity to believe they know something not only about the law but also about how to state it."

I once interviewed Chief Justice Stone after Drew Pearson had accurately forecast a decision and named the dissenters. He said he suspected Frank Murphy of leaking and adduced a prior case which was even more convincing in its circumstances. I also interviewed a justice right there in the temple itself who blurted an obscene word in exclaiming his opinion of Felix Frankfurter.

It is, in short, vulgar but appropriate American term, a lousy Supreme Court notwithstanding the death of Jackson and the appointment of a successor whose dignity and gentility will make a lonesome man of him in that company.

Expert Player Will Rise Above Luck

It's very natural to rejoice when your luck is good and to feel a little sad when your luck is bad. Only rarely do you get the chance to rise above bad luck, as my friend, Henry Chanin, did in the bridge hand shown today.

Chanin knew that he was bidding the South hand to the hilt. His partner's first response showed a count of 16 or 17 points, which meant that the combined count was only 31 to 32 points in high cards.

Nevertheless Henry pushed ahead to the slam in spades. This was highly optimistic, but far from unreasonable.

West opened the jack of clubs, and Chanin considered his best line of play. Let's consider the hand along with him. Since we can see all the cards, we can tell that both finesses in diamonds and the finesse in clubs are doomed to failure. Moreover, the hearts are not going to break 3-3. In short the luck is almost as bad as it could be.

Chanin couldn't tell that he was going to run into such bad luck, but he found a way to get around it anyway. He won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs and ruffed a club with the queen of spades. He got back to dummy by leading the low trump to dummy's eight and ruffed another low club with the king of spades.

Continuing his plan, Chanin led the ten of spades to dummy's jack and ruffed out dummy's last club with the ace of spades. This cleared up the entire club suit and left declarer without a trump in his hand.

Chanin next led a heart to dummy's king and led the nine of spades to draw West's last trump. East and South each discarded a diamond on this trick.

It was now time to try out the hearts. Chanin cashed the ace and queen of that suit, discovering that East was then left with the jack of hearts. Declarer promptly led his last heart, giving East the trick.

At this point East's last two cards were diamonds, and he had to lead up to dummy's ace-queen, giving dummy a free finesse. Chanin thus lost only one trick, making his slam contract.

Adams Says New York Has Proved Need of Bigger Force

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams says his department has proved that a larger police force could curb the city's rising crime rate.

"What remains now," he said yesterday, "is for all New Yorkers to face the fact that—if they are willing to pay for it—they can have peace and security."

Adams reported that "Operation 25," for which the police force of an East Harlem precinct was more than doubled, had cut major crime in the area by almost 50 per cent.

THE EXPERIMENT to curb crime in the 25th precinct, for years one of the city's most troublesome, started Sept. 1 and is scheduled to continue through Dec. 31.

In a television broadcast (WRCA-TV) yesterday, Adams made a report on the project even before it ended, saying he did so "since success is so clearly assured and since the crime problem in this city is so desperate."

While crime dropped in the heavily-patrolled precinct, Adams said he had "the unpleasant duty of reporting to you that crime continues on the rise" elsewhere in the city.

He continued:

"As I have made clear many times, the lack of law and order in this city is chiefly due to a shortage of at least 7,000 men in the police department."

AFTER THE BROADCAST, Adams estimated that 7,000 more policemen would cost the city about 35 million dollars a year. The present police budget is nearly 140 million and the authorized department strength is 20,878 men.

In his report on the East Harlem experiment, Adams said this was the result in the poriod from Sept. 1 to Nov. 15 compared to the same time last year:

A drop of 71 per cent in robberies, 54 per cent in burglaries, 58 per cent in grand larceny, and 69 per cent in auto thefts. These are considered major crimes by the police department.

Felonious assault, which Adams called "another important category," was off almost 22 per cent. The murder rate remained the same—4 in 10 weeks—and rape cases were 8 this year compared to 4 last year.

However, Adams said, murder and rape "by their nature can rarely be prevented. These crimes are not committed in the open. Their frequency and occurrence are not predictable."

C. was sped to Richmond, where there was better equipment to remove it. As the hospital elevator moved up, the child recoiled in terror. With his fright came tears. With the crying came coughing. And with the coughing—the peanut.

Nehru Accuses Indian Reds of Causing Unrest

New Delhi, Nov. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru, one of the chief exponents of peaceful coexistence with foreign communism, yesterday accused India's own Reds of stirring up violence and discontent.

Speaking at a mass meeting in the capital, Nehru warned that his government would act sternly against all who harm Indian unity by making trouble.

"The Indian Communists know they will become weak as India progresses," Nehru said. "Therefore they are interested in retarding India's pace of development by fishing for trouble, turmoil, discontent and disturbances."

He said the Communists at home look toward Russia and China, failing to see the progress "unparalleled in history" that India has made during her seven years of independence.

"It is foolish to imagine that progress can be made only through violent revolution and that construction can follow only after destruction," he added.

Commenting on his recent visit to Red China, he said the Communist government there is trying to work out its problems in its own way—a way "not 100 per cent Russian."

New Hampshire was the first of the 13 original colonies to declare its independence from Great Britain, in January, 1776.

No Shawl for Grandma

A little old lady in a shawl and lace cap sitting with her hands folded in her lap—that's the way Grandma's picture has been painted for generations. It's high time for the grandmothers of the world to stand up and fight this unfair picture. In doing so, they will be fighting for their lives.

Doctors say that "babying" elderly people until they feel useless only hurries them to the grave. It is just as foolish to overprotect our aged parents as to overindulge our children. Overprotection can turn a happy, useful person into a cranky dependent, dragging miserably through the last years of life. Grandma would rather get a big dinner for the family than be taken out to the finest restaurant. Whistler's Mother would have looked happier rolling out a pie.

The trend a few decades ago was to put people over 60 on the shelf. Fortunately many refused to stay there. Now doctors tell us how important useful work is in keeping them healthy and contented. Even those with heart trouble often do much better if they have light work. Sitting around worrying and complaining is more strain on the heart muscle.

Industries that used to have arbitrary retirement ages are beginning to take a new look at their policies. Retirement at 60 may hinder rather than help a person to begin to live in quiet contentment. It may make him feel unwanted and inferior. Gradual slowing down of activity, switching to lighter or less time-consuming work, and preparation for new interests that can be followed when full retirement comes—this is industry's progressive plan.

Sons and daughters may well go along with the findings of both industry and the medical profession. The whole family, as well as its older members will benefit. Grandma may have to struggle against well-meant efforts to wrap her in a shawl, but the results in better health and real contentment will be worth it.

SAN FRANCISCO OF THE FUTURE?—This is an artist's idea of what a quiet section of downtown San Francisco would look like after engineers came up with a brand-new idea for a transit system. The aerial transit would move along a modern boulevard, traveling silently and without disturbing street traffic. The rubber-tired vehicles would be powered by electricity.

Nehru Accuses Indian Reds of Causing Unrest

New Delhi, Nov. 29 (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru, one of the chief exponents of peaceful coexistence with foreign communism, yesterday accused India's own Reds of stirring up violence and discontent.

Speaking at a mass meeting in the capital, Nehru warned that his government would act sternly against all who harm Indian unity by making trouble.

"The Indian Communists know they will become weak as India progresses," Nehru said. "Therefore they are interested in retarding India's pace of development by fishing for trouble, turmoil, discontent and disturbances."

He said the Communists at home look toward Russia and China, failing to see the progress "unparalleled in history" that India has made during her seven years of independence.

"It is foolish to imagine that progress can be made only through violent revolution and that construction can follow only after destruction," he added.

Commenting on his recent visit to Red China, he said the Communist government there is trying to work out its problems in its own way—a way "not 100 per cent Russian."

New Hampshire was the first of the 13 original colonies to declare its independence from Great Britain, in January, 1776.

Adams Says New York Has Proved Need of Bigger Force

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams says his department has proved that a larger police force could curb the city's rising crime rate.

"What remains now," he said yesterday, "is for all New Yorkers to face the fact that—if they are willing to pay for it—they can have peace and security."

Adams reported that "Operation 25," for which the police force of an East Harlem precinct was more than doubled, had cut major crime in the area by almost 50 per cent.

THE EXPERIMENT to curb crime in the 25th precinct, for years one of the city's most troublesome, started Sept. 1 and is scheduled to continue through Dec. 31.

In a television broadcast (WRCA-TV) yesterday, Adams made a report on the project even before it ended, saying he did so "since success is so clearly assured and since the crime problem in this city is so desperate."

While crime dropped in the heavily-patrolled precinct, Adams said he had "the unpleasant duty of reporting to you that crime continues on the rise" elsewhere in the city.

He continued:

"As I have made clear many times, the lack of law and order in this city is chiefly due to a shortage of at least 7,000 men in the police department."

AFTER THE BROADCAST, Adams estimated that 7,000 more policemen would cost the city about 35 million dollars a year. The present police budget is nearly 140 million and the authorized department strength is 20,878 men.

In his report on the East Harlem experiment, Adams said this was the result in the poriod from Sept. 1 to Nov. 15 compared to the same time last year:

A drop of 71 per cent in robberies, 54 per cent in burglaries, 58 per cent in grand larceny, and 69 per cent in auto thefts. These are considered major crimes by the police department.

Felonious assault, which Adams called "another important category," was off almost 22 per cent. The murder rate remained the same—4 in 10 weeks—and rape cases were 8 this year compared to 4 last year.

However, Adams said, murder and rape "by their nature can rarely be prevented. These crimes are not committed in the open. Their frequency and occurrence are not predictable."

Tears Solve Emergency

Richmond, Va. (AP)—An emergency dash from south Virginia via Roanoke Rapids, N. C., came to a happy ending with a rush of tears in a hospital elevator here. C. C. Jones Jr., 3, choked on a peanut and was rushed to Roanoke Rapids. At a hospital there the peanut was spotted in the boy's lung. C. C. was sped to Richmond, where there was better equipment to remove it. As the hospital elevator moved up, the child recoiled in terror. With his fright came tears. With the crying came coughing. And with the coughing—the peanut.

"Things sure would be topsy-turvy ...if it weren't for my phone!"

Pushed for time—a million things to do—who wouldn't feel upset? But there's one thing that does a lot to help you keep things right side up. It's your telephone.

It shops for you. Runs other errands, too. Takes you quickly to friends and loved ones, near or far. And, day or night, your phone gives you a feeling of security. It's always on guard—ready to summon help in any emergency, big or little.

Yes, things could be topsy-turvy—if it weren't for your phone. And few things that serve so well cost so very little.

U. S. Churches Are at Peak, But Grope for Expression

By GEORGE CORNELL

Boston, Nov. 29 (AP)—American churches were pictured today as standing at a peak of "tremendous strength"—but at the same time groping uncertainly for ways to make that power felt in a topsy-turvy age.

Enormous, swift changes in social patterns and "dangerous moral conditions" challenge the effectiveness of the churches, said a key report to the biennial assembly of the National Council of Churches.

Despite Christianity's gains "in institutional strength," the report said, there is a disturbing question whether churches are "more or less influential in American life" than they used to be.

THE REPORT WAS for presentation to 2,500 representatives of 30 Protestant and orthodox denominations assembled here to seek new methods for reinforcing their fraternity of faith.

Measured by statistics, the report said the churches have climbed to a new high level in the nation. But it added such criteria do not prove "spiritual strength."

"When we consider how little it costs to be counted among the church members in our country, we are troubled," the report said.

"THE AVERAGE CHURCH member is not conspicuously different from the average nonmember. The average church is so much conformed to the world that people are surprised if it sharply challenges the prevailing behavior of the community."

The major, 6,500-word document on "The State of the Church" was prepared by the council's general secretary, Dr. Roy G. Ross, and its associated general secretary, Dr. Roswell P. Barnes.

It generally set forth the new problems confronting Christianity in a modern era described as one of "unprecedented change" in the living habits of people.

THE COUNCIL, representing 35,500,000 Christians of varied traditions, headed into its first working sessions today after hearing a call to tighten their ranks, to strengthen their common convictions.

"A closer degree of cooperation is the demand of the hour," the council president, Methodist Bishop William C. Marden of Dallas, told an opening service last night. "Nothing else will do."

His keynote address came after a colorful processional of robed delegates and denominational bankers, led by a bearer of a large gold cross atop a staff.

President Eisenhower sent his greetings, expressing hope the council's work will strengthen "the dedication and the faith of ever increasing numbers of our citizens." He said:

"Through such endeavors, through such devotion, America and her freedom will remain strong and secure."

Asks Area Drivers To Set Pace for Mishap-Free Day

Ulster county Sheriff Cluett Schantz today asked the people of this area to "set the pace" for the rest of the nation by keeping Wednesday, Dec. 15, accident-free.

"Let's be leaders in President Eisenhower's S-D test exercises," the sheriff said. "Let's demonstrate the practicality of passing an entire day without a single traffic accident.

"The idea is perfectly feasible and the objective can be achieved if everyone will take extra special precautions on the designated day," he said.

"The Ulster County Sheriff's Department intends to do all that it can to help assure the success of this drive. We will talk about, we will publicize it in every way possible, and on December 15 we will be especially vigilant for accident-causing violations," he said.

Scientists Mourn Death of Fermi

Chicago, Nov. 29 (AP)—Fellow scientists today mourned the death of Enrico Fermi, self-exiled Italian physicist who became the architect of the atomic age.

Fermi died of cancer yesterday at the age of 53. If he had been spared a few more years, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said, "he might have been saved by medical techniques derived from his own discoveries."

The Nobel Prize winner's controlled release of atomic energy made atomic power a reality. He first suggested the possibility of an atomic bomb to the U. S. government in 1939. Three years later the atomic pile he built at the University of Chicago provided the key to the manufacture of the A-bomb.

Private burial services are to be held this afternoon in Oakwood Cemetery, Chicago. Only members of his immediate family will attend.

Fermi's associates will attend a memorial service Friday at the University of Chicago's Rockefeller Memorial Chapel. Fermi was professor of physics in the university's institute for nuclear studies.

His death at his home near the university came as a shock to his physicist colleagues, although many of them knew he was suffering from cancer.

Reverse Action Offers Barrier to Advanced Age

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—You have a good chance of living to be 100—if you first hurdle a curious invisible barrier at ages 60 to 75, a medical team reported today.

This barrier is a period in which certain chemical and physical processes of the body begin to reverse themselves, in a kind of reverse aging. You begin growing younger in certain ways.

This new finding on growing old is described by Drs. A. A. Goldbloom, Otto Deutschberger, Irving Chapman and H. B. Eiber of New York Medical College in an exhibit at the clinical session of the American Medical Association opening here today. It is based upon a survey of more than 1,000 persons aged 80 to 100.

THEY FIND EVIDENCE that some biochemical and physical processes which increase with age begin to go into revverse between 60 and 75. Just why they do so is not yet clear. But it looks as though the changes amount to "some invisible, not clearly understood barrier."

"Most of us die before reaching that barrier, or while going through it. But, once we get through, our chances of living to be 100 are good," Dr. Eiber said.

Two processes which seem to change are hardening or calcification of the aorta—the main artery from the heart—and dilatation of the aorta.

And the amounts of certain fatty substances in the blood—which are blamed as having a part in hardening arteries—actually begin to drop after age 75, the study finds.

The medical team finds that increased blood pressure at older ages is not something which is normal or inevitable, but rather something which can and should be controlled, to help people reach the century mark.

Reverse Action Offers Barrier to Advanced Age

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

(AP Science Reporter)

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—You have a good chance of living to be 100—if you first hurdle a curious invisible barrier at ages 60 to 75, a medical team reported today.

This barrier is a period in which certain chemical and physical processes of the body begin to reverse themselves, in a kind of reverse aging. You begin growing younger in certain ways.

This new finding on growing old is described by Drs. A. A. Goldbloom, Otto Deutschberger, Irving Chapman and H. B. Eiber of New York Medical College in an exhibit at the clinical session of the American Medical Association opening here today. It is based upon a survey of more than 1,000 persons aged 80 to 100.

THEY FIND EVIDENCE that some biochemical and physical processes which increase with age begin to go into revverse between 60 and 75. Just why they do so is not yet clear. But it looks as though the changes amount to "some invisible, not clearly understood barrier."

"Most of us die before reaching that barrier, or while going through it. But, once we get through, our chances of living to be 100 are good," Dr. Eiber said.

Two processes which seem to change are hardening or calcification of the aorta—the main artery from the heart—and dilatation of the aorta.

And the amounts of certain fatty substances in the blood—which are blamed as having a part in hardening arteries—actually begin to drop after age 75, the study finds.

The medical team finds that increased blood pressure at older ages is not something which is normal or inevitable, but rather something which can and should be controlled, to help people reach the century mark.

Traders Selling And Buying With Eyes on Taxes

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—In the jargon of the astrologer the stock market is now in the sign of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

This is the time of year that stock traders sell — and buy — with income tax returns in mind.

The new factor will color the market picture, already complicated by the entry of the public as an important buying element — an entry which traditionally stimulates buying, and worries some professionals.

PROFIT TAKING also is an obvious factor of weight in the stock market. Those who prefer a bird in the hand have been selling to cash in on the gains of the exuberant postelection market. Their selling has slowed down markedly, but not halted, the upward surge of prices.

To this and to the newly emphasized interest of the public—as always, on the bullish side—must now be added the selling of those who want to establish losses for tax purposes, or those who for reasons of their own want to make their profits a matter of record, also for tax purposes.

A third group who may be active, both as sellers and buyers, will be some managers of portfolios of stocks—thier own or those they control—who may be switching from stocks which have had notable price gains into others which haven't joined the upward surge as yet and therefore may promise better yields.

ALL OF THESE cross-purpose factors should make the daily performance of the stock market in the next four weeks particularly interesting.

The public's entry of late is unmistakeable—not only in the increased volume of trading, and the flood of orders to brokerage houses from all parts of the country, from cities both big and small, but also by the recent seat shortage in brokerage board rooms. If a while back they seemed to be a refuge mainly for those resting their feet, today they are crowded. The public is definitely interested in the stock market.

THE AMOUNT of stock trading for tax purposes this yearend has the brokers perplexed. At first glance, there wouldn't seem to be many losses to be established, so steadily upward has been the main course of stock market this year. Since September, 1953, for example the industrials as a group have added 50 per cent to their collective market value.

But look at any recent day when the stock averages made a new high for the year and you'll find that a few individual stocks were making new lows for the year. Traders who guessed wrong on them would have a loss to report for tax purposes.

TO DO THIS the traders could make a simple sale and the loss is a matter of record—for matters of tax reporting they can't buy this same stock back for 30 days. If they still have faith in the stock, as often is the case, and want to retain their holdings, they have another course. They can buy an equal number of shares of the stock. They must wait 30 days and then sell their original holdings for loss-establishing, while retaining the new block for whatever purpose they have in mind. Of course, if the price has gone down in the period they had to hold both blocks, they'll be sorry.

SELLING to establish a profit could be for two reasons. Either the owner prefers to pay the tax on the capital gain this year rather than next, or he has losses on other capital holdings which offset the profit: Result—no tax.

These cross currents may well show up in the market in the next few weeks. Market analysts will take them into account in trying to guess what the general trend of the market is.

AT THE MOMENT, the majority of the analysts are saying that speculation seems to be concentrating in the low-priced stocks, that investment factors still seems to rule the blue chip stocks. But there's an old Wall Street saying: When all the experts agree, take a second look.

Spot That Bus

Hartford, Conn. (AP)—School buses, says Connecticut Motor Vehicles Commissioner Charles F. Kelley, should be painted yellow and plainly identified so that they are "made to look like school buses." "We have a conglomeration of vehicles used as school buses that often make it difficult for motorists to spot a school bus easily and drive accordingly," he says.

There is a schoolhouse fire every six hours in the United States.

TCP puts lost engine power back to work

First introduced exclusively in Shell Premium Gasoline, TCP is now in regular grade Shell Gasoline, too. Gives performance never before possible with a regular grade fuel*

*TCP, Shell-developed additive that overcomes the greatest cause of power loss in the majority of the cars on the road today, has now been blended into regular grade Shell Gasoline.

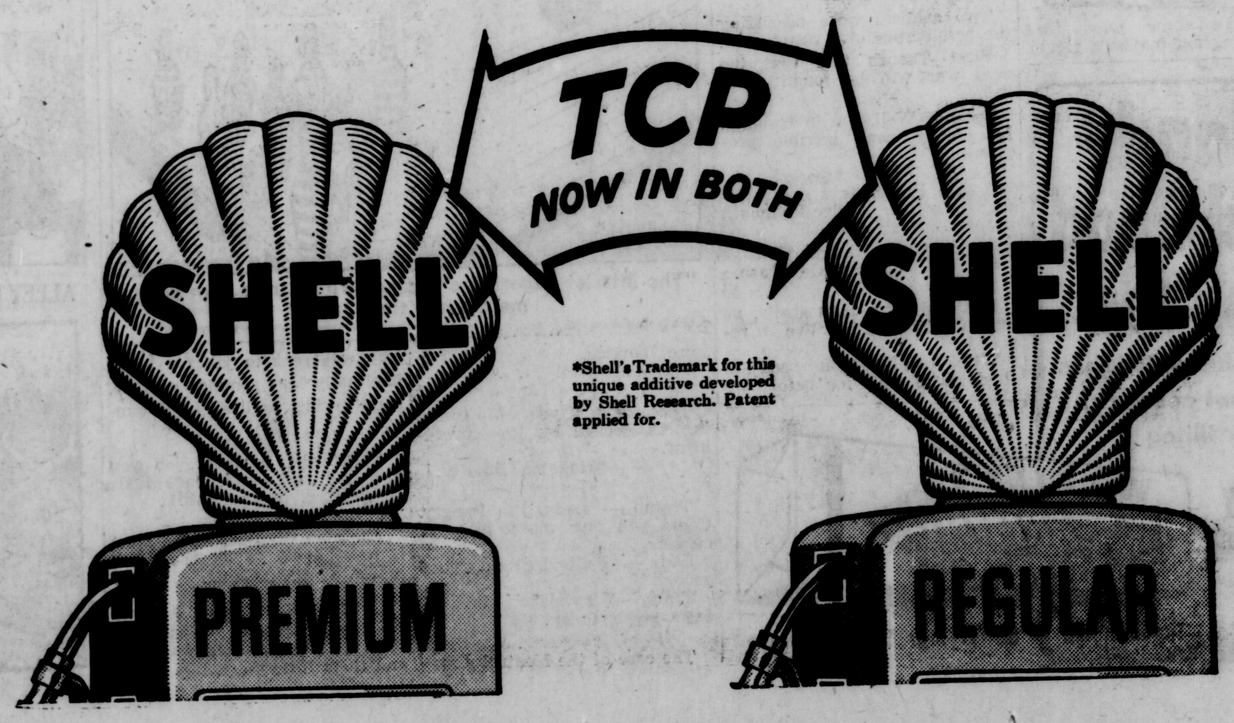
As a result, engines designed to operate on regular gasoline can benefit two ways. First, TCP additive "fireproofs" combustion chamber deposits, effectively controlling pre-ignition. Second, by changing the deposits on the spark plugs to non-conductors of electricity, TCP additive stops misfiring. Each plug fires as it should, preventing fuel waste.

If your engine customarily runs on regular fuel and is being robbed of power by deposits —you'll now get performance never before possible with a regular grade gasoline. Shell Gasoline with TCP gives these engines an increase in power and engine smoothness, an increase in spark plug life, an increase in mileage. And you'll get these benefits before you've finished the second tankful.

Since engine deposits form constantly, continued use of Shell Gasoline, regular grade, with TCP additive is essential to retain its benefits. Now at all Shell Dealers.



*Shell's Trademark for this unique additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Santa Goes Nostalgic

By FRANK TRIPP

Santa Claus is dipping deep into his past for gadgets to intrigue the current generation. He has dolled them up and suggested some new uses. Maybe it's a dirty trick to squeal on the old crook.

You must have noticed them in the ads and those catalogues that bulge the mails at this season. There are scores of them.

He's making quite a fuss over trinkets that were common to grandpa. I jotted down a hasty list that extends into a childhood that many of you too will remember.

There's the old cobbler's bench, for instance. Gramp kept his in the woodshed and used it to resole $3.00-a-pair shoes. His offspring displays it in the living room as a plant stand or magazine rack — and throws away $22 repairable footwear.

THE LAZY SUSAN that puts patent condiments within whirling reach of diners was gramp's homemade substitute for the high and clumsy pewter "caster" that held the pepper, salt and grandma's own vinegar, mustard and horse-radish that would knock you for a goal. Uncle Jimmy Haddock wouldn't tolerate a caster in the middle of his table. It obstructed his view of his sweetheart, Aunt Sarah.

And trivets come electrified now, to keep things warm, or as cast-iron replicas to hang on the wall. How gramp would laugh at that.

He'd see real sense in the successor to his old kerosene hanging lamp that hung in the center of the room, and pulled down for the family's evening reading hour around the red-spread dining room table, or over the marble topped stand in the parlour—now cut down to an 18-inch coffee table show piece. They're making electric ceiling fixtures that pull down just like grandpa's lamp.

GRANDMA had gramp put shelf brackets up and down the sunniest windows and lay boards across them. There she placed "slips" off her choice plants, and those of her friends, in water-filled fruit jars and started her spring garden in December—or from seeds in cigar boxes. The solariums come now in chrome and plate glass to slip into any window casing, but grandma's know-how doesn't come with them.

Gramp would get a kick out of his bootjack used as a door stop, the revival of his door knocker and the door catch that gave birth to the neighborly phrase, "Our latch string is always out." To lock up at night he just pulled the string in through its hole in the door.

He'd wish he could find the ten-pound, seven inch thick family Bible in embossed binding, reverently resting on its own waist-high stand in the parlour; its pages of half inch high type punctuated by hand etched Biblical scenes; at its front, carefully penned, the complete family record of births, marriages, deaths. Have you one? I have—and believe I'll move it to our "parlour." Why not?

ONE NEEDN'T revert all the way to grandpa to recall his youthful carelessness about things now cherished or copied as treasures. Take the old oil and gas street lamps. The genuine is scarce; even copies come high.

There stands in our yard an original, handmade oil street lamp, now electrified, that came from the streets of New London, Conn.

Years ago, as a lad, searching scrap iron for Rand Drill Co. out of Tarrytown and Ossining (once Sing Sing), I bought 300 tons of scrap in New York for $11.00 a ton. Two thirds of that scrap were the graceful gas lamps posts that came off New York's street corners.

They were crushed and melted into the rock drills and air compressors that pecked the catacomb of subways under New York City. All of the several hundreds of them today would go like hit cakes at 100 bucks apiece, or better.

We all are scrapping, every day, things for which our children in time would give their eyeteeth—and saving things they'll junk the minute we pass on.

Penney to Give Special Payment to Associates

New York, Nov. 29—J. C. Penney Company, nation-wide department store organization, announced today that its directors have authorized a special year-end payment for more than 50,000 associates in the company's 1,639 stores, offices and warehouses throughout the United States.

The payment will be an amount equal to two-week's pay for all fulltime associates who have been employed for the full year 1954, and proportionate amounts for extra and part-ime associates and those employed less than a year.

All Penney associates will share in the payment except management staff members whose earnings are determined largely by the company's long-standing profit-sharing plan. It will be made Dec. 15.

In a letter to the firm's associates, A. W. Hughes, president, said the payment was based upon the company's results for 1954. "We are particularly happy to be able to make this payment as a result of what has been accomplished this past year," he said. "The possibility of future payments of course will continue to depend upon year to year results."

Why We Say--

The word Cash is one of our most popular business expressions. It originated in France. In old French the word "casse" meant a little box where money was kept . . . gradually the money took on the name of the box and "cash" came to us as an important word today.

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S FUTURE

When Robert R. Young won control of the big New York Central Railroad, thousands of bond and stockholders took heart. To get in the driver's seat, he had persuaded two millionaires to buy hundreds of thousands of Central common shares at $25 each.

Bond holders who had paid 100 cents on the dollar for obligations and stockholders who had paid $150 a share for the stock saw a light in the clearing.

"This is it!" many of them said. But when the stock went down to $19 from $25 and the bonds still sold at a big discount, the cheers became feeble. With a total debt of over $850,000,000 and with 6,447,000 common shares outstanding, people around the world today are asking: "Well, what is the future of the New York Central Railroad?"

The system has new management. The recently-appointed president, Alfred E. Perlman, 52, has had a brilliant career as a railroad executive. He is a graduate of one of America's greatest engineering colleges. To me one of the most favorable events in Central's history is the granting to Mr. Perlman the right to buy 32,000 shares of Central's common stock at $19.875 a share. That simple agreement could be the driving force behind the system's economic rehabilitation.

Central's system is huge. Average annual revenues for the 5-year period, 1949-1953, have been $780,000,000. A few efficiencies here and there and a re-alignment of assets could work wonders. And I think just that is going to happen.

During the 20-year period from 1912 through 1931, New York Central stockholders received $118.25 in cash dividends a share—almost $6 a year. The shares sold for $256 each in 1929.

During the 20 years from 1934 through 1953, cash dividends totalled $8.50 a common share—less than 45 cents a share yearly. Little wonder, then, that these shares plummeted from a high of $256 to $7 in 1941. If, under the new management, the pendulum of earnings swings half-way back, New York Central common can, in the years ahead, be one of the dynamic risk equities.

What can the management do, in such an economic renaissance? A lot of things.

Hundreds of miles of track can be eliminated. This probably will be done. Taxes and costs would be drastically reduced.

Maintaining the big Grand Central Station in New York costs millions yearly. Mr. Young has lately stated that the site of the station is suited for a tall office building. Such a structure might turn red figures into black.

New York Central's real estate is very valuable. A thorough analysis of this situation might prove the wisdom of selling some of it and paying off funded debt.

Then, too, if Central's earning power is even partially restored, there is no railroad system in the world that could engage in a vaster deft refunding program. It is ironic that today, with cheap money available to most of our corporations and to Uncle Sam, this big system with annual revenues running around three quarters of a billion dollars, can't cut its fixed charges substantially.

It is my belief that in the decade ahead, some interesting refunding will be engaged in by Central. A saving of only one per cent a year on its overall debt would add over a dollar a share to Central's common stock earnings.

The overall economic picture of the Central is favorable. The bonds and the stock carry risk. But the possible improvements and Mr. Perlman's stock option should cheer up many bond and stockholders.

..THE FORUM (Q) "I am 76 years of age. I can sell for $40,000 a farm that cost me less than $12,000. Would you sell it and with half of the money buy 1,000 shares of New York Central common?"

(A) Yes, I would. New York Central has a present book value of $144 a share.

Penney to Give Special Payment to Associates

New York, Nov. 29—J. C. Penney Company, nation-wide department store organization, announced today that its directors have authorized a special year-end payment for more than 50,000 associates in the company's 1,639 stores, offices and warehouses throughout the United States.

The payment will be an amount equal to two-week's pay for all fulltime associates who have been employed for the full year 1954, and proportionate amounts for extra and part-ime associates and those employed less than a year.

All Penney associates will share in the payment except management staff members whose earnings are determined largely by the company's long-standing profit-sharing plan. It will be made Dec. 15.

In a letter to the firm's associates, A. W. Hughes, president, said the payment was based upon the company's results for 1954. "We are particularly happy to be able to make this payment as a result of what has been accomplished this past year," he said. "The possibility of future payments of course will continue to depend upon year to year results."

Why We Say--

The word Cash is one of our most popular business expressions. It originated in France. In old French the word "casse" meant a little box where money was kept . . . gradually the money took on the name of the box and "cash" came to us as an important word today.

NEW YORK CENTRAL'S FUTURE

When Robert R. Young won control of the big New York Central Railroad, thousands of bond and stockholders took heart. To get in the driver's seat, he had persuaded two millionaires to buy hundreds of thousands of Central common shares at $25 each.

Bond holders who had paid 100 cents on the dollar for obligations and stockholders who had paid $150 a share for the stock saw a light in the clearing.

"This is it!" many of them said. But when the stock went down to $19 from $25 and the bonds still sold at a big discount, the cheers became feeble. With a total debt of over $850,000,000 and with 6,447,000 common shares outstanding, people around the world today are asking: "Well, what is the future of the New York Central Railroad?"

The system has new management. The recently-appointed president, Alfred E. Perlman, 52, has had a brilliant career as a railroad executive. He is a graduate of one of America's greatest engineering colleges. To me one of the most favorable events in Central's history is the granting to Mr. Perlman the right to buy 32,000 shares of Central's common stock at $19.875 a share. That simple agreement could be the driving force behind the system's economic rehabilitation.

Central's system is huge. Average annual revenues for the 5-year period, 1949-1953, have been $780,000,000. A few efficiencies here and there and a re-alignment of assets could work wonders. And I think just that is going to happen.

During the 20-year period from 1912 through 1931, New York Central stockholders received $118.25 in cash dividends a share—almost $6 a year. The shares sold for $256 each in 1929.

During the 20 years from 1934 through 1953, cash dividends totalled $8.50 a common share—less than 45 cents a share yearly. Little wonder, then, that these shares plummeted from a high of $256 to $7 in 1941. If, under the new management, the pendulum of earnings swings half-way back, New York Central common can, in the years ahead, be one of the dynamic risk equities.

What can the management do, in such an economic renaissance? A lot of things.

Hundreds of miles of track can be eliminated. This probably will be done. Taxes and costs would be drastically reduced.

Maintaining the big Grand Central Station in New York costs millions yearly. Mr. Young has lately stated that the site of the station is suited for a tall office building. Such a structure might turn red figures into black.

New York Central's real estate is very valuable. A thorough analysis of this situation might prove the wisdom of selling some of it and paying off funded debt.

Then, too, if Central's earning power is even partially restored, there is no railroad system in the world that could engage in a vaster deft refunding program. It is ironic that today, with cheap money available to most of our corporations and to Uncle Sam, this big system with annual revenues running around three quarters of a billion dollars, can't cut its fixed charges substantially.

It is my belief that in the decade ahead, some interesting refunding will be engaged in by Central. A saving of only one per cent a year on its overall debt would add over a dollar a share to Central's common stock earnings.

The overall economic picture of the Central is favorable. The bonds and the stock carry risk. But the possible improvements and Mr. Perlman's stock option should cheer up many bond and stockholders.

..THE FORUM (Q) "I am 76 years of age. I can sell for $40,000 a farm that cost me less than $12,000. Would you sell it and with half of the money buy 1,000 shares of New York Central common?"

(A) Yes, I would. New York Central has a present book value of $144 a share.

MR. AND MRS. CARLO FRANK PERRY cut the wedding cake at the reception following their wedding, Sunday, Nov. 21, at St. Mary's Church. (Brentwood photo).

Beverly Rathgeber, Carlo F. Perry Wed at St. Mary's

Miss Beverly Ann Rathgeber, daughter of Walter Rathgeber of 121 Franklin street and the late Mrs. Rathgeber, became the bride of Carlo Frank Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perry of 41 Hoffman street, Sunday, Nov. 21, at 2 p. m., in St. Mary's Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly.

Miss Patricia O'Keefe was soloist. Theodore Riccobono accompanied her on the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Italian silk fashioned with a basque bodice, long tapered sleeves, and a V-neckline with an Alencon lace collar. Her scalloped bouffant skirt, posed over a nylon tulle dust ruffle, terminated in a chapel length train. A princess crown of tulle leaves, trimmed with orange blossoms and iridescent sequins, secured her scalloped French illusion veil. She carried a prayer book with white orchid and streamers with sweetpeas.

Miss Barbara Rathgeber, of this city, twin sister of the bride, was the honor attendant. She wore a gown of bronze crystallette, Dior fashion, with a long molded bodice, draped shoulders, and a bouffant floor length skirt. Her headpiece was a matching halo hat, trimmed with lilacs. She carried a cascade bouquet of gold pompons with gold ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Julia Perry, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn Perry, niece of the bridegroom. Their gowns in gold, were identical in style to that of the honor attendant. They carried rust pompon cascades with gold ribbon.

Eugene Perry, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Michael Alecca of this city, nephew of the bridegroom, and Michael Lent, of Ravena, nephew of the bridegroom.

Altar boys were Louis Lange, nephew of the bridegroom, and Thomas Bruck, both of this city.

A reception followed the ceremony at St. Mary's Hall, for 400 guests. Guests attended from Albany, Ravena, New Baltimore, Stamford, Brooklyn, Stillwater, and Portland, Me.

For the motoring trip through the southern states, the bride chose a pale blue princess style dress, with black accessories, a gold coat and a white orchid. On their return they will live at 41 Hanratty street.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1952, is employed at Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Hall of Records.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at Merritt, Chapman and Scott, New York. He served two years in the Marine Corps.

Personal Notes

Miss Maureen Heanue, who is a member of the faculty of Kingston High School, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at her home in New York.

Mrs. William E. Powers, Jr., of 282 Albany avenue, entertained at two tables of bridge Saturday afternoon at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Philip and son James, Jr., spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Philip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Dittmar, 269 Smith avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Baker of Fort Lee, N. J., formerly of this city, visited here over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Marianne Davis, of 53 Crown street, attended the christening at St. Thomas Church, New York, Sunday noon, of Elizabeth Merriam Raymond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merriam Raymond of New York, the Rev. Frederick M. Morris officiating. Mr. Raymond is with Irving Trust Company, New York. Miss Davis is a godparent of the child.

LONG TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS

A reader writes me as follows: "I would like to know if you think I was justified in walking out on a friend the other afternoon under the following circumstances: During my visit the telephone rang several times and my friend had quite lengthy conversations with the persons calling while I sat and waited. When the telephone rang for the third time and the conversation promised to go on and on, I motioned to my friend that I was leaving and took my hat and coat and walked out. Now I understand that she thinks I was very rude in leaving so abruptly."

If the conversations were just idle chatter and they were not discussing anything of importance, and moreover she made no effort to end any of the talks, I think you were quite justified in saying, "I have to go," and go. If you could see that she was trying to end the conversations, then it was rather unkind to leave her the way you did.

How Many Thank You Notes?

Dear Mrs. Post: When several members of the same family send separate flowers to the funeral, will one note of thanks, including them all, be sufficient?

Answer: Acknowledgment must go to each person who sends separate flowers. If one wreath, or spray, has several cards attached, the one note to the oldest, or the one you know best, thanking all the senders together, would be correct.

Are They All Women?

Dear Mrs. Post: If a company has the name of a woman, for example, Mary M. Blank Associates, what is the correct salutation for a letter addressed to the company?

Answer: If you know that the associates of Mary M. Blank are all women, you write "Dear Madams." Otherwise you write "Dear Sirs."

SGT. AND MRS. JOHN HENRY GREMER before the altar of Jefferson Methodist Church immediately following their wedding Saturday, Nov. 20. Mrs. Gremer is the former Elizabeth Ann Carr, of Jefferson, formerly a resident of this city. (Galfetto photo)

Elizabeth Carr, Sgt. John H. Gremer Wed in Jefferson

Miss Elizabeth Ann Carr, daughter of Peter J. Carr of Jefferson, formerly of this city, was married to John Henry Gremer, son of Mrs. Charlotte Gremer, of Ozone Park, L. I., in a double ring ceremony Saturday, Nov. 20, at Jefferson Methodist Church. The Rev. O. Gerald Lawson officiated.

Mrs. Edwin Riem of North Plainfield, N. J., was soloist in the selections, Because and O Promise Me. The organist was Mrs. Gerald Lawson. A candelabra was placed on either side of the altar, with floral decorations of two baskets of large and small white chrysanthemums and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rosepoint lace over bridal satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and an illusion yoke embroidered with iridescent sequins. Her bouffant skirt of tulle with side panels of lace was floor length. A contour crown of tulle trimmed with medallions of iridescent sequins secured her three quarter length French illusion veil. She carried small decorative white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Daniel E. Coons, sister of the bride, of Stamford, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of coral crystallette fashioned with an Empire bodice edged with pleating and a bouffant floor-length skirt. A matching Spencer jacket and a crown of nylon tulle completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of large yellow chrysanthemums.

The attendants were Miss Antoinette Ruehar of New York, and Mrs. Lawrence Barringer of Schenectady, both classmates of the bride at Kingston Hospital School of Nursing. They wore gowns in pervanche blue in identical style to that worn by the honor attendant, and carried cascades of large pink chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Howard F. Schrumpf, of Jefferson. Ushers were Joseph Hargreaves of Upper Montclair, N. J., cousin of the bridegroom, and Lawrence Barringer of Schenectady.

A reception was held for 70 guests at Masonic Hall, Jefferson, following the ceremony.

For the wedding trip through the southern states, the bride wore a white knit dress with red accessories and a corsage of small white decorative chrysanthemums.

The bride, a graduate of Jefferson Central School, class of 1951, and Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1954, was employed at the hospital. She was president of the senior class of 1954, co-editor of the yearbook and president of the Student Nurses' Association at the School of Nursing.

The bridegroom who also is a graduate of Jefferson Central School, is now serving as a sergeant in the Marine Corps, in which he enlisted in June, 1951.

Sgt. and Mrs. Gremer will make their home at Parris Island, S. C., where the bridegroom is stationed.

Her scalloped bouffant skirt, posed over a nylon tulle dust ruffle, terminated in a chapel length train. A princess crown of tulle leaves, trimmed with orange blossoms and iridescent sequins, secured her scalloped French illusion veil. She carried a prayer book with white orchid and streamers with sweetpeas.

Miss Barbara Rathgeber, of this city, twin sister of the bride, was the honor attendant. She wore a gown of bronze crystallette, Dior fashion, with a long molded bodice, draped shoulders, and a bouffant floor length skirt. Her headpiece was a matching halo hat, trimmed with lilacs. She carried a cascade bouquet of gold pompons with gold ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Julia Perry, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn Perry, niece of the bridegroom. Their gowns in gold, were identical in style to that of the honor attendant. They carried rust pompon cascades with gold ribbon.

Eugene Perry, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Michael Alecca of this city, nephew of the bridegroom, and Michael Lent, of Ravena, nephew of the bridegroom.

Altar boys were Louis Lange, nephew of the bridegroom, and Thomas Bruck, both of this city.

A reception followed the ceremony at St. Mary's Hall, for 400 guests. Guests attended from Albany, Ravena, New Baltimore, Stamford, Brooklyn, Stillwater, and Portland, Me.

For the motoring trip through the southern states, the bride chose a pale blue princess style dress, with black accessories, a gold coat and a white orchid. On their return they will live at 41 Hanratty street.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1952, is employed at Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Hall of Records.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Kingston High School, is employed at Merritt, Chapman and Scott, New York. He served two years in the Marine Corps.

LONG TELEPHONE CONVERSATIONS

A reader writes me as follows: "I would like to know if you think I was justified in walking out on a friend the other afternoon under the following circumstances: During my visit the telephone rang several times and my friend had quite lengthy conversations with the persons calling while I sat and waited. When the telephone rang for the third time and the conversation promised to go on and on, I motioned to my friend that I was leaving and took my hat and coat and walked out. Now I understand that she thinks I was very rude in leaving so abruptly."

If the conversations were just idle chatter and they were not discussing anything of importance, and moreover she made no effort to end any of the talks, I think you were quite justified in saying, "I have to go," and go. If you could see that she was trying to end the conversations, then it was rather unkind to leave her the way you did.

How Many Thank You Notes?

Dear Mrs. Post: When several members of the same family send separate flowers to the funeral, will one note of thanks, including them all, be sufficient?

Answer: Acknowledgment must go to each person who sends separate flowers. If one wreath, or spray, has several cards attached, the one note to the oldest, or the one you know best, thanking all the senders together, would be correct.

Are They All Women?

Dear Mrs. Post: If a company has the name of a woman, for example, Mary M. Blank Associates, what is the correct salutation for a letter addressed to the company?

Answer: If you know that the associates of Mary M. Blank are all women, you write "Dear Madams." Otherwise you write "Dear Sirs."

SGT. AND MRS. JOHN HENRY GREMER before the altar of Jefferson Methodist Church immediately following their wedding Saturday, Nov. 20. Mrs. Gremer is the former Elizabeth Ann Carr, of Jefferson, formerly a resident of this city. (Galfetto photo)

Elizabeth Carr, Sgt. John H. Gremer Wed in Jefferson

Miss Elizabeth Ann Carr, daughter of Peter J. Carr of Jefferson, formerly of this city, was married to John Henry Gremer, son of Mrs. Charlotte Gremer, of Ozone Park, L. I., in a double ring ceremony Saturday, Nov. 20, at Jefferson Methodist Church. The Rev. O. Gerald Lawson officiated.

Mrs. Edwin Riem of North Plainfield, N. J., was soloist in the selections, Because and O Promise Me. The organist was Mrs. Gerald Lawson. A candelabra was placed on either side of the altar, with floral decorations of two baskets of large and small white chrysanthemums and pompons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of rosepoint lace over bridal satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves and an illusion yoke embroidered with iridescent sequins. Her bouffant skirt of tulle with side panels of lace was floor length. A contour crown of tulle trimmed with medallions of iridescent sequins secured her three quarter length French illusion veil. She carried small decorative white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Daniel E. Coons, sister of the bride, of Stamford, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of coral crystallette fashioned with an Empire bodice edged with pleating and a bouffant floor-length skirt. A matching Spencer jacket and a crown of nylon tulle completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade of large yellow chrysanthemums.

The attendants were Miss Antoinette Ruehar of New York, and Mrs. Lawrence Barringer of Schenectady, both classmates of the bride at Kingston Hospital School of Nursing. They wore gowns in pervanche blue in identical style to that worn by the honor attendant, and carried cascades of large pink chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Howard F. Schrumpf, of Jefferson. Ushers were Joseph Hargreaves of Upper Montclair, N. J., cousin of the bridegroom, and Lawrence Barringer of Schenectady.

A reception was held for 70 guests at Masonic Hall, Jefferson, following the ceremony.

For the wedding trip through the southern states, the bride wore a white knit dress with red accessories and a corsage of small white decorative chrysanthemums.

The bride, a graduate of Jefferson Central School, class of 1951, and Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1954, was employed at the hospital. She was president of the senior class of 1954, co-editor of the yearbook and president of the Student Nurses' Association at the School of Nursing.

The bridegroom who also is a graduate of Jefferson Central School, is now serving as a sergeant in the Marine Corps, in which he enlisted in June, 1951.

Sgt. and Mrs. Gremer will make their home at Parris Island, S. C., where the bridegroom is stationed.

— OPEN EVENINGS —

Pro-McCarthy Rally Scheduled

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—A rally in support of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) is scheduled for tonight in Madison Square Garden.

The event was organized by a group known as "Ten Million Americans Mobilizing for Justice" as a climax to its campaign for 10 million signatures on petitions opposing the Senate motion to censure McCarthy.

Chairman and keynoter for the gathering will be Maj. Al Williams, speed flier and retired marine pilot. Speakers lined up to address the rally by closed circuit radio are:

GOV. J. BRACKEN LEE of Utah, broadcasting from Salt Lake City; retired Air Force Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, chairman of the organization, from Winter Park, Fla.; retired Adm. William H. Standley, vice chairman, from Coronado, Calif.; Col. Alvin M. Owlsey, past national commander of the American Legion, from Dallas, Tex.; John Francis Neyland, from Palo Alto, Calif.; and Clyde A. Lewis, past commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, from Plattsburg.

Williams' keynote speech is entitled "What Price Censure?" Other speakers scheduled to appear at the rally are:

DR. GOODFREY SCHMIDT, professor of constitutional law at Fordham University, who will talk on "Constitutional Implications of Censure"; Col. Wlilliam Friel Heimlich, former director of RIAS, the U. S. radio station in Berlin, speaking on "Difficulties of Congressional Investigation of Subversive Infiltration," and retired Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin, who directed the signature drive, on "The Hidden Force."

The rally sponsors have predicted an overflow attendance of 22,000 persons and the New York Police Department has assigned 400 men to the rally.

In Washington yesterday McCarthy said he did not know if he would be able to get to the rally. A Senate session to debate the censure proposal might not leave him enough time to get to New York, he said.

Rescue Teams Seek Students

Tokyo, Nov. 29 (AP)—Rescue teams poked in vain through a mass of snow, rock and splintered trees for a trace of at least 14 college students engulfed by a mammoth avalanche that roared down the slopes of world famous Mt. Fuji.

The body of one student was found last night.

The 14 are feared dead.

Twenty-four in another group escaped.

The two-pronged torrent of snow ripped a 1,000-yard path down the icy slopes of the cone-shaped mountain, 60 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Search also was underway for eight other students reported to have had been on Fuji yesterday. The newspaper Asahi said the group's tent camp had been swept away but apparently was empty at the time.

U. S. servicemen attempt the climb often but U. S. authorities cancel such expeditions when winter makes the peak treacherous. No U. S. personnel were reported on Fuji yesterday.

Harriman Group To Survey Jobless

Amsterdam, Nov. 29 (AP) — Gov.-elect Averell Harriman's economic surveyors set out today on a three-day, pre-inaugural tour of study unemployment problems in five upstate cities.

The three-man team, accompanied by Isador Lubin, who has been designated to serve as industrial commissioner in the incoming Democratic administration, planned to hold public hearings at Amsterdam today, Schenectady tomorrow and Hudson on Wednesday.

The schedule called also for conferences on the job situation in Gloversville and Johnstown.

LUBIN SAID yesterday that the group would "do little talking" at this stage, but would listen to local representatives of the five communities, which he said were singled out because of special unemployment troubles.

Serving on the team are Richardson Wood, industrial consultant; Philip M. Kaiser, who served as assistant secretary of labor in former President Truman's cabinet, and Sidney C. Sufrin, professor of economics at Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs.

Lubin has said his role on the trip is that of an observer.

Flies to Manila

Manila, Nov. 29 (AP)—An American polio specialist flew in from San Francisco yesterday on an emergency mission to assist the stricken wife of a New York business executive. Dr. Robert Denton, Oakland, Calif., was rushed here without plane ticket or passport to help Mrs. Joyce Von Kohorn, Scarsdale, N. Y. The American Hospital here said there was no change in the condition of Mrs. Von Kohorn. The last was reported resting comfortably. Mrs. Von Kohorn is the wife of Henry Von Kohorn, executive vice president of Von Kohorn International Corp.

Wiltwycks to Meet

Wiltwyck Hose Company, No. 1, will meet Thursday, Dec. 2, at 8 p. m., at the firehouse on Fair street. Among items on the agenda is the nomination of officers, according to L. E. Dunne, secretary.

ATTORNEY AND MRS. JOHN L. LARKIN of this city, who were married in Marion, Ill., Saturday, Nov. 20, are at the Royal Victoria Hotel, Nassau, Bahamas, on their wedding trip. They will return to Kingston this week. Mrs. Larkin is the former Miss Mimi Lennertz, daughter of Mrs. W. E. Lennertz, Marion, Ill. Mr. Larkin's parents are Dr. and Mrs. John Larkin, 14 Pearl street.

Woman Killed, Two Are Hurt

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—One woman was killed and two persons critically injured early today when the car in which they were returning from Greenwich, Conn., to Queens skidded on rainswept Hutchinson River Parkway.

Miss Lynne Mutter, 21, of Flushing, Queens, was critically injured when she was thrown out of the car as it crashed into a guard rail and then bounded into a barrier separating two traffic lanes.

Miss Mary Bowe, 20, and James McClean, 22, both Flushing, were admitted to Fordham Hospital. The woman suffered internal injuries and McClean, owner and driver of the car, received a possible skull fracture.

Another passenger, Thomas Mellick, 24, of (35-24 154th St.) Flushing, was uninjured.

Police said the two couples had spent the evening together and then had driven to Greenwich for an early-morning snack.

Hearings Scheduled

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee, under Rep. Harold Velde (R.-Ill), was scheduled to begin a three-day hearing today on Communist and other subversive activities in Florida.

Lewis, past commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, from Plattsburg.

Williams' keynote speech is entitled "What Price Censure?" Other speakers scheduled to appear at the rally are:

DR. GOODFREY SCHMIDT, professor of constitutional law at Fordham University, who will talk on "Constitutional Implications of Censure"; Col. Williiam Friel Heimlich, former director of RIAS, the U. S. radio station in Berlin, speaking on "Difficulties of Congressional Investigation of Subversive Infiltration," and retired Rear Adm. John G. Crommelin, who directed the signature drive, on "The Hidden Force."

The rally sponsors have predicted an overflow attendance of 22,000 persons and the New York Police Department has assigned 400 men to the rally.

In Washington yesterday McCarthy said he did not know if he would be able to get to the rally. A Senate session to debate the censure proposal might not leave him enough time to get to New York, he said.

Rescue Teams Seek Students

Tokyo, Nov. 29 (AP)—Rescue teams poked in vain through a mass of snow, rock and splintered trees for a trace of at least 14 college students engulfed by a mammoth avalanche that roared down the slopes of world famous Mt. Fuji.

The body of one student was found last night.

The 14 are feared dead.

Twenty-four in another group escaped.

The two-pronged torrent of snow ripped a 1,000-yard path down the icy slopes of the cone-shaped mountain, 60 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Search also was underway for eight other students reported to have had been on Fuji yesterday. The newspaper Asahi said the group's tent camp had been swept away but apparently was empty at the time.

U. S. servicemen attempt the climb often but U. S. authorities cancel such expeditions when winter makes the peak treacherous. No U. S. personnel were reported on Fuji yesterday.

Harriman Group To Survey Jobless

Amsterdam, Nov. 29 (AP)—Gov.-elect Averell Harriman's economic surveyors set out today on a three-day, pre-inaugural tour of study unemployment problems in five upstate cities.

The three-man team, accompanied by Isador Lubin, who has been designated to serve as industrial commissioner in the incoming Democratic administration, planned to hold public hearings at Amsterdam today, Schenectady tomorrow and Hudson on Wednesday.

The schedule called also for conferences on the job situation in Gloversville and Johnstown.

LUBIN SAID yesterday that the group would "do little talking" at this stage, but would listen to local representatives of the five communities, which he said were singled out because of special unemployment troubles.

Serving on the team are Richardson Wood, industrial consultant; Philip M. Kaiser, who served as assistant secretary of labor in former President Truman's cabinet, and Sidney C. Sufrin, professor of economics at Syracuse University's Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs.

Lubin has said his role on the trip is that of an observer.

Flies to Manila

Manila, Nov. 29 (AP)—An American polio specialist flew in from San Francisco yesterday on an emergency mission to assist the stricken wife of a New York business executive. Dr. Robert Denton, Oakland, Calif., was rushed here without plane ticket or passport to help Mrs. Joyce Von Kohorn, Scarsdale, N. Y. The American Hospital here said there was no change in the condition of Mrs. Von Kohorn. The last was reported resting comfortably. Mrs. Von Kohorn is the wife of Henry Von Kohorn, executive vice president of Von Kohorn International Corp.

Woman Killed, Two Are Hurt

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—One woman was killed and two persons critically injured early today when the car in which they were returning from Greenwich, Conn., to Queens skidded on rainswept Hutchinson River Parkway.

Miss Lynne Mutter, 21, of Flushing, Queens, was critically injured when she was thrown out of the car as it crashed into a guard rail and then bounded into a barrier separating two traffic lanes.

Miss Mary Bowe, 20, and James McClean, 22, both Flushing, were admitted to Fordham Hospital. The woman suffered internal injuries and McClean, owner and driver of the car, received a possible skull fracture.

Another passenger, Thomas Mellick, 24, of (35-24 154th St.) Flushing, was uninjured.

Police said the two couples had spent the evening together and then had driven to Greenwich for an early-morning snack.

Hearings Scheduled

Miami, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee, under Rep. Harold Velde (R.-Ill), was scheduled to begin a three-day hearing today on Communist and other subversive activities in Florida.

Navy-Mississippi, Ohio State-USC Games Rate as Top Bowl Pairings

By JOHN CHANDLER
(The Associated Press)

Eight college football teams led by such post season veterans as Southern California and Georgia Tech made up the cast today for the Rose, Sugar, Orange and Cotton Bowls—the four major New Year's Day grid attractions.

Duke, champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference, was the last one to join the select group when the league athletic directors chose the Blue Devils to play in Miami's Orange Bowl against Nebraska of the Big Seven. Duke ended its regular season with a 47-12 thumping of North Carolina.

ONE MORE BOWL announcement is expected sometime later today when the Gator Bowl selection committee picks two teams to play in the Dec. 31 affair at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Sugar Bowl grabbed Navy and Mississippi late Saturday within minutes after the teams had scored victories in their season's final games. Navy accepted a bid to New Orleans after rocking Army 27-20 in the annual service clash before more than 100,000 spectators at Philadelphia.

MISSISSIPPI BLANKED arch rival Mississippi State 14-0 to capture the Southeastern Conference championship and earn an invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Although the Cotton Bowl has had Arknasas, the Southwest Conference champs, for a week, the other half of the Dallas classic had to wait until Georgia Tech whipped Georgia 7-3. Arkansas wound up with a 19-0 win over Houston.

Southern California had ended its conference schedule and had a little unfinished business Saturday with Notre Dame. The Irish won, but had to rally for a 23-17 verdict.

Nebraska, assured of the Orange Bowl for a week, wound up its season Friday night in Honolulu by belting Hawaii 50-0, but Duke had to sweat it out. Maryland, also under consideration for the Orange Bowl, had trampled Missouri Thursday 74-13, and no decision was made until Sunday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA has played in the Rose Bowl 11 times since 1923, and has won nine games, the last a 7-0 decision over Wisconsin in 1953.

The real bowl travelers, however, are the Ramblin' Wrecks from Georgia Tech, the only one of the eight that has played in all of the four big bowls. They sport a 7-2 post season mark.

Duke won the 1945 Sugar Bowl game with Alabama 29-26, but dropped two Rose Bowl decisions to Southern California and Oregon State, the latter in a game shifted to Dudham, N. C., in 1942 because of the war.

Navy, Arkansas and Nebraska will be making their second trip to a bowl.

A scattering of games headed by the Notre Dame-Southern Methodist nationally televised game from Dallas winds up the regular season this Saturday.

Bowls at Glance

(By The Associated Press)

The lineup of New Year's Day major football bowl games:

Rose Bowl — Ohio State (9-0) vs. Southern California (8-3).

Sugar Bowl—Navy (7-2) vs. Mississippi (9-1).

Cotton Bowl — Arkansas (8-2) vs. Georgia Tech (7-3).

Orange Bowl — Nebraska (6-4) vs. Duke (7-2-1).

Gator Bowl — To be announced today.

Lous Stop Angels 2nd Time at Y

Lou's Machine, newly crowned champions of the Autumn "B" League, flattened Harry's Angels, 86-76, on the Y court Saturday.

It was the second loss of the season for the Angels, both to the Machine Shop.

SKIP BRODHEAD, who has been averaging close to 30 points in the summer loop, hooped 25 points for the winners. Ray Lawrence hit 17, Bob Maines 14 and Richie Strong 10.

"Champ" Holstein of the Angels was the individual leader with 26 markers. Big Bill Kleine rimmed 21 and Bud Scheffel 11.

VALLEY GARDENS thumped Empire Diner, 66-47, in the companion piece, with Cliff Schoonmaker bucketing 21 markers. Byron Lawrence hooped 14 and Andy Anderson 11.

PACKERS GAIN GROUND

Forsts Sweep Liberty; Joneses, Elston's Win

Forst Packers held their grip on second place in the Hudson Valley Bowling League with a 3-0 win over Liberty Goodys, Saturday at the Bowlodrome.

In other matches, Jones Dairy defeated the Liberty Toros, 2-1, in a road match. Elston's Sport Shop captured the odd set from Rapp's Express in an intra-city match.

THE PACKERS were able to sweep the mountaineers with a modest 2697 series, taking the second game by 10 pins and the third by four.

George Shufeldt led the Packers with 595 slam on lines of 213, 206 and 176. Randy Kelder had 549.

Laufensweiler pounded 202-582 and R. Nelson 213-597 for the Palm Gardens but the other three members of the team were under 500.

ELSTON'S won the third and deciding game from Rapp's by five sticks but were outpinned, 2741-2681.

Jack Ferraro anchored the winners with 592 (189-194-212). Ken Joseph compiled the top triple of the weekend with 196-223-201 for 620 for Rapp's. Fred Ferraro shot 208-581.

JOHNNY FERRARO shot 212-581 as Jones Dairy edged Liberty Toros, 2-1, scoring a 3-pin decision in the middle set. Frank Finn, league president, paced the mountaineers with 168-215-222 for 605.

Bruin Winger Gets Hat Trick

By The Associated Press

Leo Labine, a deadeye right winger from Haileybury, Ont., who makes his winter home in Boston, owned the second three goal "hat trick" of the National Hockey League season today following an explosive display that put his name in the record books.

Labine accounted for five points—including his three goals—in the second period of last night's game against Detroit, tying the single period mark held by former Chicago stars, Les Cunningham and Max Bentley.

The productive outburst enabled the Bruins to swamp the Red Wings 6-2 and keep pace with the New York Rangers, 4-1 victors over the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. The Rangers lead Boston by three points in the battle for fourth place, but the Bruins have played two less games.

JOHNNY BOWER'S sparkling performance in the New York goal enabled the Rangers to surprise the Canadiens. Bower, filling in for the injured Lorne Worsley, turned aside 29 shots, faltering only on Tom Johnson's first period scorcher.

Dean Prentice and Larry Popein came through with second period goals that sewed up the game for the Rangers.

In the only other game, the Toronto Maple Leafs moved into undisputed possession of second place by playing a 1-1 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Courtney for Kell Swap In the Wind

Baltimore, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Baltimore Sun said today it had learned that the Baltimore Orioles have offered catcher Clint Courtney and $50,000 to the Chicago White Sox for the veteran infielder George Kell.

Prior to last season, when he was hampered by a bad back and a knee injury, the 32-year-old Kell had batted over .300 in eight straight seasons and had a lifetime major league mark of .311.

Last year Kell batted .276 while playing for the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox. He played third base for the White Sox under Paul Richards, the new Oriole manager.

Seixas-Trabert Win in Doubles

Melbourne, Nov. 29 (AP)—Vic Seixas, something of a disappointment during the American Davis Cup team's visit here last year, continued to show greatly improved tennis today as he and Tony Trabert advanced to the semifinals of the Victorian doubles championships with a crushing 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Australia's George Worthington and Don Candy.

Seixas looks like a different tennis player this year. The Philadelphian was brilliant today as he showed the way to victory.

After tomorrow's singles quarterfinals, the American aces will go up against Australia's Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall. The Aussies qualified for the semifinals with a 6-1, 6-1, 6-3 rout of Roger Becker and John Barrett of England. Neither Hoad nor Rosewall lost their service once as they toyed with the less-experienced English players.

Navy-Mississippi, Ohio State-USC Games Rate as Top Bowl Pairings

Bowls at Glance

(By The Associated Press)

The lineup of New Year's Day major football bowl games:

Rose Bowl — Ohio State (9-0) vs. Southern California (8-3).

Sugar Bowl—Navy (7-2) vs. Mississippi (9-1).

Cotton Bowl — Arkansas (8-2) vs. Georgia Tech (7-3).

Orange Bowl — Nebraska (6-4) vs. Duke (7-2-1).

Gator Bowl — To be announced today.

By JOHN CHANDLER
(The Associated Press)

Eight college football teams led by such post season veterans as Southern California and Georgia Tech made up the cast today for the Rose, Sugar, Orange and Cotton Bowls—the four major New Year's Day grid attractions.

Duke, champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference, was the last one to join the select group when the league athletic directors chose the Blue Devils to play in Miami's Orange Bowl against Nebraska of the Big Seven. Duke ended its regular season with a 47-12 thumping of North Carolina.

ONE MORE BOWL announcement is expected sometime later today when the Gator Bowl selection committee picks two teams to play in the Dec. 31 affair at Jacksonville, Fla.

The Sugar Bowl grabbed Navy and Mississippi late Saturday within minutes after the teams had scored victories in their season's final games. Navy accepted a bid to New Orleans after rocking Army 27-20 in the annual service clash before more than 100,000 spectators at Philadelphia.

MISSISSIPPI BLANKED arch rival Mississippi State 14-0 to capture the Southeastern Conference championship and earn an invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Although the Cotton Bowl has had Arknasas, the Southwest Conference champs, for a week, the other half of the Dallas classic had to wait until Georgia Tech whipped Georgia 7-3. Arkansas wound up with a 19-0 win over Houston.

Southern California had ended its conference schedule and had a little unfinished business Saturday with Notre Dame. The Irish won, but had to rally for a 23-17 verdict.

Nebraska, assured of the Orange Bowl for a week, wound up its season Friday night in Honolulu by belting Hawaii 50-0, but Duke had to sweat it out. Maryland, also under consideration for the Orange Bowl, had trampled Missouri Thursday 74-13, and no decision was made until Sunday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA has played in the Rose Bowl 11 times since 1923, and has won nine games, the last a 7-0 decision over Wisconsin in 1953.

The real bowl travelers, however, are the Ramblin' Wrecks from Georgia Tech, the only one of the eight that has played in all of the four big bowls. They sport a 7-2 post season mark.

Duke won the 1945 Sugar Bowl game with Alabama 29-26, but dropped two Rose Bowl decisions to Southern California and Oregon State, the latter in a game shifted to Dudham, N. C., in 1942 because of the war.

Navy, Arkansas and Nebraska will be making their second trip to a bowl.

A scattering of games headed by the Notre Dame-Southern Methodist nationally televised game from Dallas winds up the regular season this Saturday.

Lous Stop Angels 2nd Time at Y

Lou's Machine, newly crowned champions of the Autumn "B" League, flattened Harry's Angels, 86-76, on the Y court Saturday.

It was the second loss of the season for the Angels, both to the Machine Shop.

SKIP BRODHEAD, who has been averaging close to 30 points in the summer loop, hooped 25 points for the winners. Ray Lawrence hit 17, Bob Maines 14 and Richie Strong 10.

"Champ" Holstein of the Angels was the individual leader with 26 markers. Big Bill Kleine rimmed 21 and Bud Scheffel 11.

VALLEY GARDENS thumped Empire Diner, 66-47, in the companion piece, with Cliff Schoonmaker bucketing 21 markers. Byron Lawrence hooped 14 and Andy Anderson 11.

Top man for Empire Diner was Bill DuBois with 19 points. Vince Peck hit 12.

PACKERS GAIN GROUND

Forsts Sweep Liberty; Joneses, Elston's Win

Forst Packers held their grip on second place in the Hudson Valley Bowling League with a 3-0 win over Liberty Goodys, Saturday at the Bowlodrome.

In other matches, Jones Dairy defeated the Liberty Toros, 2-1, in a road match. Elston's Sport Shop captured the odd set from Rapp's Express in an intra-city match.

THE PACKERS were able to sweep the mountaineers with a modest 2697 series, taking the second game by 10 pins and the third by four.

George Shufeldt led the Packers with 595 slam on lines of 213, 206 and 176. Randy Kelder had 549.

Laufensweiler pounded 202-582 and R. Nelson 213-597 for the Palm Gardens but the other three members of the team were under 500.

ELSTON'S won the third and deciding game from Rapp's by five sticks but were outpinned, 2741-2681.

Jack Ferraro anchored the winners with 592 (189-194-212). Ken Joseph compiled the top triple of the weekend with 196-223-201 for 620 for Rapp's. Fred Ferraro shot 208-581.

JOHNNY FERRARO shot 212-581 as Jones Dairy edged Liberty Toros, 2-1, scoring a 3-pin decision in the middle set. Frank Finn, league president, paced the mountaineers with 168-215-222 for 605.

Bruin Winger Gets Hat Trick

By The Associated Press

Leo Labine, a deadeye right winger from Haileybury, Ont., who makes his winter home in Boston, owned the second three goal "hat trick" of the National Hockey League season today following an explosive display that put his name in the record books.

Labine accounted for five points—including his three goals—in the second period of last night's game against Detroit, tying the single period mark held by former Chicago stars, Les Cunningham and Max Bentley.

The productive outburst enabled the Bruins to swamp the Red Wings 6-2 and keep pace with the New York Rangers, 4-1 victors over the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. The Rangers lead Boston by three points in the battle for fourth place, but the Bruins have played two less games.

JOHNNY BOWER'S sparkling performance in the New York goal enabled the Rangers to surprise the Canadiens. Bower, filling in for the injured Lorne Worsley, turned aside 29 shots, faltering only on Tom Johnson's first period scorcher.

Dean Prentice and Larry Popein came through with second period goals that sewed up the game for the Rangers.

In the only other game, the Toronto Maple Leafs moved into undisputed possession of second place by playing a 1-1 tie with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Courtney for Kell Swap In the Wind

Baltimore, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Baltimore Sun said today it had learned that the Baltimore Orioles have offered catcher Clint Courtney and $50,000 to the Chicago White Sox for the veteran infielder George Kell.

Prior to last season, when he was hampered by a bad back and a knee injury, the 32-year-old Kell had batted over .300 in eight straight seasons and had a lifetime major league mark of .311.

Last year Kell batted .276 while playing for the Boston Red Sox and the Chicago White Sox. He played third base for the White Sox under Paul Richards, the new Oriole manager.

From a Retailer's Standpoint

THE entire business of any retailer points toward one objective, the 4 business weeks that precede Christmas. If business is bad during the year, he counts on the Christmas business to bring him out of the red. If business has been good, during the year, he counts on Christmas selling to make it a "LOLLAPOSSA" of a year.

And, on the 2 days following Thanksgiving Day, he walks through his store — whether it be a big store or a little store. He looks at his wares and asks himself many questions. Is my merchandise attractive? Is it priced properly? Does it have customer appeal? Did I buy the right things? Will the customers like my taste?

Yes, . . ., each retailer takes a mental inventory of his store and the Christmas Sales possibilities.

And, . . . speaking for myself, I did exactly the same thing. In a humble manner, but with all the confidence in the world, I make the following statement which is as true as the ring of a silver dollar. Call it boasting if you will. I DON'T. I hate arrogance or boasting of any description.

But for 52 years, since 1902 to be exact, we have tried to have the gayest and most attractive Christmas gifts for men and boys. Truly and sincerely I say to you,—never but never, have we ever shown such a glorious selection of Christmas wearables for men and boys. Believe me when I say—with the utmost confidence,—no store, . . . anywheres, . . . will show a greater selection of styleables at the prices we have marked for your friendly buying, — than here at Kaye Sportwair.

Browns, Lions Heading For Third NFL Playoff

Los Angeles, 49ers Out of Contention

By BEN OLAN
(The Associated Press)

Barring miracles or sharp form reversals, the Detroit Lions and Cleveland Browns will meet for the National Football League championship next month for the third straight time.

While Cleveland moved closer to its fifth consecutive divisional title by handing the closest pursers, the New York Giants, a 16-7 setback yesterday, the idle Lions saw the Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers drop out of contention, leaving only the Chicago Bears in the race.

CLEVELAND'S impregnable defense limited the Giants to 68 yards rushing, while Otto Graham and company ground out 336. The Giants' net gain was only four yards.

An early game injury to Charlie Conerly hurt the Giant chances. Lou Groza, as usual, chipped in this time with three field goals. Herb Johnson ran a punt back 48 yards for the only New York TD as 45,936 looked on.

Graham connected with 16 of 27 passes for 238 yards and sneaked over from the 1 to climax a 44-yard Brown TD drive. Darrell Brewster caught eight passes for 126 yards for the Browns.

GARY KERKORIAN and and Royce Womble teamed up on a 78-yard pass play in the closing moments to end a six-year jinx for the Baltimore Colts as they stopped the San Francisco 49ers, 17-13.

A crowd of 23,875 saw the Colts conquer the 49ers for the first time in their professional gridiron history and knock San Francisco out of the running in the western conference.

ADRIAN BURKE, who looks like the world's greatest quarterback when exposed to Washington uniforms, pitched five touchdowns to lead the Philadelphia Eagles to a 41-33 victory over the Redskins.

A crowd of 18,151 watched the sloppy game on a cold, cloudy day. There were 12 fumbles—six for each team—and every method of scoring was used, touchdowns, conversions, field goals and a safety.

TACKLE NICK Bolkavac, cut by Pittsburgh early in the season and then recalled, kicked a 26-yard field goal midway in the last period to give the revenge bent Steelers a 20-17 victory over the Chicago Cardinals.

The 230-pound former Pittsburgh star also booted a 23-yard field goal in the second period.

Rookie Quarterback Zeke Bratkowski of Georgia passed for two touchdowns in the Chicago Bears' 24-13 victory over the Los Angeles Rams.

The Bears', ending the Rams' 3-game winning streak before 34,382 Wrigley Field fans, held the league's top yard-gaining team scoreless in the last half.

FORT WAYNE'S Pistons and Minneapolis Lakers continued to run 1-2 in the National Basketball Association's western division today, while the Syracuse Nationals moved into a first place tie with the Philadelphia Warriors in the eastern race.

In afternoon games yesterday the Pistons defeated the Milwaukee Hawks 96-81 and the Lakers downed the Boston Celtims 115-108 in a wild and wooly fray which produced season records for free throws made and fouls committed.

Syracuse ran its winning streak to seven by rallying to defeat the New York Knickerbockers 79-77 last night. Dolph Schayes drove in with the deciding field goal in the final 27 seconds, although limping from an injured heel.

CLYDE LOVELLETTE sank 29 points for Minneapolis. Boston made 66 free throws for a new NBA record compared with only 52 points from the field.

Vern Mikkelsen hit 29 and Jim Bollard 21 for the Lakers. Bob Cousy led the Celtics with 21 points and Bill Sharman hit 20.

Jim Yardley sparked Fort Wayne's victory over Milwaukee with 16 points. Bob Pettit rimmed 19 for the Hawks.

Typhoon Hits Philippines

Manila, Nov. 29 (AP)—Another typhoon slammed into the Central Philippines today and ripped through Leyte island with 100-mile-an-hour winds. The Manila Weather Bureau said the storm sideswiped Tacloban, Leyte's capital city with a population of 45,000. The typhoon was moving westward at 20 miles an hour in the direction of the rich sugar-growing islands of Cebu, Negros and Panay.

Turner-Drake Contest Heads Boxing Slate

By MURRAY ROSE
(The Associated Press)

Brooklyn's Lulu Perez and Sacramento's Joey Lopes, two fast young lightweights, meet tonight in a television 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena.

Lopes makes his eastern debut and if he can get by the flashy Brooklynite, he'll be in line for plenty of action on the network shows. The Californian has a 23-6-2 record compared to Perez' 30-3-1.

The (10 p. m., EST) bout will be telecast by Dumont-TV.

THE OTHER Monday night network bout (ABC-TV, 10 p. m., EST), from Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena, will feature a pair of punching middleweights, veteran Gil Turner of Philadelphia, and young Ray Drake of New York. Drake beat Floyd Patterson twice in the amateurs but hasn't developed as fast as Patterson in the pros.

Drake's record is 16-3. Turner has won 46 of his 52 scraps. This marks Ray's national TV debut as a main eventer.

THE BOUT OF the week will be beamed out of Cleveland's Arena on Wednesday night (CBS-TV, 10 p. m., EST), where heavyweights Roland La Starza of New York and Charlie Norkus of Port Washington, N. Y., meet in a 10-rounder featuring the Cleveland News' annual toyshop show.

This is the 27-year-old La Starza's first outing since he dropped a close decision to England's Don Cockell in London last March. Norkus, a crude but powerful puncher, flattened Charlie Powell, the ex-football pro, in seven rounds in San Francisco, Oct. 6. La Starza, a clever boxer, has a 53-5 record. Norkus is 25-12 wth 15 kayos.

ROCKY Castellani, middleweight contender from Cleveland, and Moses Ward of Detroit, clash in another 10-rounder on the fine card for the charity show.

AAU Approves 23 World Marks By US Athletes

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 29 (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) gave its official approval yesterday to 23 world record breaking performances by American athletes in 1954.

In the final meeting of its annual convention, the AAU accepted claims for one new world mark in track, 16 in swimming and six in weight lifting. Also approved were two track performances and two swimming feats which equalled the listed world standards.

Leading the American record breakers were Ford Konno of Ohio State who set four new world swimming marks, and Tommy Kono of Sacramento, Calif., and Norbert Schemansky of Detroit, each with three weight lifting records.

A total of 238 applications for world, American and meet records were placed before the AAU. Of these, 164 were approved and 74 rejected.

Fordham University set a new world mark of 7:27.3 in the 2-mile relay and the University of Texas twice tied the world record of 40.5 in the 440-yard relay.

Probe Gets Underway

Washington, Nov. 29 (AP)—A House investigation of organized labor's welfare funds, estimated at more than 20 billion dollars, gets underway today with more than a dozen witnesses on tap. Chairman McConnell (R.-Pa.) would not disclose in advance the names of the witnesses or say what specific funds or insurance companies were slated for early examination. The committee is expected to get a line on whether legislation is needed to safeguard the funds.

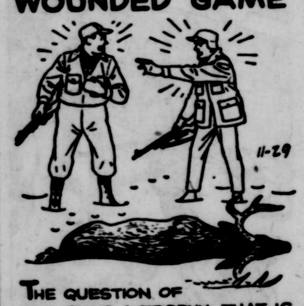
OWNERSHIP OF WOUNDED GAME



THE QUESTION OF WHO OWNS A TROPHY THAT IS WOUNDED BY ONE HUNTER AND FINISHED BY ANOTHER, IS USUALLY SETTLED THIS WAY BY THE COURTS:

WILD GAME IS PUBLIC PROPERTY UNTIL A HUNTER WOUNDS IT. THEN IT BECOMES HIS RESPONSIBILITY TO FOLLOW AND KILL. IF HE QUITS THE CHASE, HE FORFEITS HIS CLAIM.

DON'T QUOTE THIS AS LEGAL ADVICE! AND, DON'T DEFEND A CLAIM WITH YOUR LIFE, EITHER!

From a Retailer's Standpoint

THE entire business of any retailer points toward one objective, the 4 business weeks that precede Christmas. If business is bad during the year, he counts on the Christmas business to bring him out of the red. If business has been good, during the year, he counts on Christmas selling to make it a "LOLLAPOSSA" of a year.

And, on the 2 days following Thanksgiving Day, he walks through his store — whether it be a big store or a little store. He looks at his wares and asks himself many questions. Is my merchandise attractive? Is it priced properly? Does it have customer appeal? Did I buy the right things? Will the customers like my taste?

Yes, . . ., each retailer takes a mental inventory of his store and the Christmas Sales possibilities.

And, . . . speaking for myself, I did exactly the same thing. In a humble manner, but with all the confidence in the world, I make the following statement which is as true as the ring of a silver dollar. Call it boasting if you will. I DON'T. I hate arrogance or boasting of any description.

But for 52 years, since 1902 to be exact, we have tried to have the gayest and most attractive Christmas gifts for men and boys. Truly and sincerely I say to you,—never but never, have we ever shown such a glorious selection of Christmas wearables for men and boys. Believe me when I say—with the utmost confidence,—no store, . . . anywheres, . . . will show a greater selection of styleables at the prices we have marked for your friendly buying, — than here at Kaye Sportwair.

Browns, Lions Heading For Third NFL Playoff

Los Angeles, 49ers Out of Contention

By BEN OLAN
(The Associated Press)

Barring miracles or sharp form reversals, the Detroit Lions and Cleveland Browns will meet for the National Football League championship next month for the third straight time.

While Cleveland moved closer to its fifth consecutive divisional title by handing the closest pursers, the New York Giants, a 16-7 setback yesterday, the idle Lions saw the Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers drop out of contention, leaving only the Chicago Bears in the race.

CLEVELAND'S impregnable defense limited the Giants to 68 yards rushing, while Otto Graham and company ground out 336. The Giants' net gain was only four yards.

An early game injury to Charlie Conerly hurt the Giant chances. Lou Groza, as usual, chipped in this time with three field goals. Herb Johnson ran a punt back 48 yards for the only New York TD as 45,936 looked on.

Graham connected with 16 of 27 passes for 238 yards and sneaked over from the 1 to climax a 44-yard Brown TD drive. Darrell Brewster caught eight passes for 126 yards for the Browns.

GARY KERKORIAN and and Royce Womble teamed up on a 78-yard pass play in the closing moments to end a six-year jinx for the Baltimore Colts as they stopped the San Francisco 49ers, 17-13.

A crowd of 23,875 saw the Colts conquer the 49ers for the first time in their professional gridiron history and knock San Francisco out of the running in the western conference.

ADRIAN BURKE, who looks like the world's greatest quarterback when exposed to Washington uniforms, pitched five touchdowns to lead the Philadelphia Eagles to a 41-33 victory over the Redskins.

Riley J. Ratterbee said the change was the result of a nationwide study of current and anticipated workloads in district offices. He said the survey showed the 19-county Albany district was overstaffed while districts in New York city and the south were short of manpower.

Ratterree said all 103 collection officers would be given an opportunity to volunteer for jobs of the same grade and pay in New York city, and in the Atlanta, Ga., region. He said some jobs also were open in Florida.

If not enough request reassignment, Ratterree said "involuntary reassignments" will be made. Employes refusing such reassignments will be laid off, he said.

DWS Police Nab Six for Hunting

Six men, charged with trespassing on New York city reservoir property for the purpose of hunting were arrested by Department of Water Supply police Saturday and Sunday.

Five were picked up Saturday and one yesterday. Five were fined $12.50 each under civil compromise regulations when they were arraigned before justices of the peace. One is due for appearance before a justice next Friday at 7 p. m.

Corp. Dennis Carroll arrested Timothy Anthony of 768 South Oak Drive, Bronx; Officer Thomas Ahearn arrested Philip Coletti and Oral Miner, of West Shokan, and Lt. Edward Blalock and Corp. Hilton Smith arrested Raymond Krom and Leon Von Wagnon, of St. Remy.

Corp. Smith also arrested Roderick Downie, of Yonkers yesterday. Most of the men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Molloy of Phoenicia, and one was brought before Mrs. Katherine Carlson, a justice of the peace at Shokan. Coletti is due to be arraigned at 7 p. m. Friday.

Police Charge Trio With Holdup Spree

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—Three youths, said by police to have admitted a wave of holdups in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, were held today on armed robbery and concealed weapons charges.

Police identified the three as John Dloughy, 24, of 26 Ohio Rd., and Richard Shelley, of 33 First avenue, 24, both of Spring Valley, and Donald Smith, 22 of Hard avenue, Garnersville, N. Y.

County Prosecutor Guy Calissi said the youths were nabbed Friday night as they rode through Park Ridge. A police search of the car and the trio turned up three loaded guns and an "arsenal" of ammunition.

Calissi said the three admitted holdups in East Rutherford, Guttenberg, Closter and Mahwah, all in New Jersey; in Astoria, and Westchester county and Suffern, all in New York; and one unidentified town in Connecticut.

The youths were held in the Bergen county jail there.

Grandma Doss

Edmondson related, Mrs. Doss declared "my conscience is clear." He said it was a comment she uttered after each formal statement.

The only surviving husband of Mrs. Doss is Charley Braggs of Alabama City, Ala. Edmondson said Mrs. Doss told him the marriage to Braggs in 1921 produced four daughters, two now living. They divorced in 1928.

County investigator W. A. Lang said Mrs. Doss declared she had been jealous of Lanning and Morton because they were popular with the women. She claimed Harrelson beat her so she poured liquid poison into his jug of corn whiskey.

Edmondson said she told him she poisoned Doss twice because "he was mean to me." Once by pouring on "a lot of poison on his prunes." After eating them he went to the hospital for 23 days. The day after he returned. Mrs. Doss was quoted, she gave him a tablespoonful of poison in a cup of coffee.

Doss drank the coffee and died the next day at the hospital, she recalled.

"He sure did like prunes," she was quoted. "I fixed a whole box and he ate them all."

Edmondson said she denied any connection with the deaths of her sisters, her mother or Harrelson's 2½-year-old grandson who preceded Harrelson in death by two months.

Mrs. Doss permitted an interruption of her interrogation yesterday long enough to make an appearance for television cameramen. She sat through a filmed interview at which only questions from authorities were permitted.

Gives to Charity

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sir Louis Sterling, who came here by cattle boat in 1903, marked his 75th birthday by donating 200,000 pounds ($560,000) to charity today. Now a British subject, the New York-born industrialist became a knight in 1937.

MRS. NANNIE DOSS, 49-year-old grandmother, leaves courthouse in Tulsa, Okla. (Nov. 27) after seven hours of questioning by officers of Oklahoma and Kansas. County Attorney J. Howard Edmonston said eight persons closely associated with Mrs. Doss have died under strange circumstances, including four husbands and four other relatives. Police said she told them Sunday she fed her fourth husband poison and that Saturday she admitted she poisoned No. 5. (AP Wirephoto).

Bomb Fleet

ed discussing any exact timetable for production of B52s, the first of which are scheduled for delivery to operating units next fall, they emphasized the urgency of the program.

One official said the air force is trying to convert from B36s to B52s "as quickly as possible," and that "we are bucking time." The reference obviously was to the reported rapid buildup of Russia's fleet of strategic bombers and jet fighters which could operate effectively against slower piston-engined bombers flying in at altitudes lower than the all-jet bombers.

THE B52 WILL BE built at two plants of Boeing Airplane Company, Seattle and Wichita. It is powered with eight J-57 engines, each producing about 10,000 pound thrust. Maximum weight of the plane, fully loaded with fuel and bomb, is about 300,000 pounds, somewhat less than the B36.

Secretary of Air Harold Talbott has said the present range of the B52 is about 6,000 miles, with hope for extending that to 10,000. This would make its combat radius (the distance to which it can fly and return to base, with additional mileage for time over the target and variations from direct course) about 2,500 miles.

However, the B52 is equipped for in-flight refueling from a tanker plane.

Wrangle Occurs At Murder Trial

Cleveland, Nov. 29 (AP)—The defense and an expert state witness wrangled bitterly today over the extent of the injuries Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard received on the day of his wife's murder.

Dr. Richard Hexter, a physician who examined Sheppard, was the witness.

Sheppard claims he was struck down and twice knocked unconscious by a "bushy haired" marauder, who he says was the actual murderer.

Hexter examined the osteopath on the afternoon of July 4, only a few hours after the slaying of Sheppard's pregnant wife Marilyn, 31.

A HEATED ARGUMENT began when Hexter testified about the significance of the absence of abdominal reflexes.

He found such absence on the right side of Sheppard's abdomen, he said.

But "in and of itself, such an absence of reflex doesn't mean a thing," Hexter said.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan, in cross examination, pounced fiercely on this statement.

He contended that a blow on the neck could have injured the central nervous system, and he tried to force Hexter to agree that the absence of the abdominal reflex showed this injury.

HEXTER REPLIED that 11 per cent of normal men do not have normal abdominal reflexes. He cited his sources and statistics for this. This was the basis for his statement that the absence of the reflex "in and of itself, doesn't mean a thing."

Corrigan, his voice rising, said:

"I am going to ask this court and this jury to perform an experiment. I am going to ask them to hit themselves in the back of the neck at the base of the brain to judge the tremendous force of the blow."

Prosecution attorneys objected and Judge Edward Blythin said that kind of experiment could not take place in his courtroom.

Corrigan hammered away hard on his contention that the status of Sheppard's abdominal reflexes that day indicated a severe blow at the base of the brain and an injury to the central nervous system.

Dr. Hexter, in direct testimony, said the defendant had injuries of his mouth, face, forehead and ribs. But as to the possibility of a spinal injury, he said "I could not make a diagnosis of a spinal cord injury."

Fire Damages Car After Striking Rails

A 1951 sedan owned by Roland Vandermark, 25, of Kerhonkson, was damaged by a fire which broke out after it struck guard rails along Route 209 two miles south of Kerhonkson about 8:30 p. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Troopers said Vandermark told them the vehicle struck seven guard rail posts. Vandermark, who apparently was not hurt, left to call a tow truck, and the fire broke out while he was away, according to the report. Someone summoned the Kerhonkson Fire Department, which responded and extinguished the blaze.

Prediction Made Card Involvement Exceeds Estimate

New York, Nov. 29 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Edward S. Silver of Brooklyn says the number of police involved in the "courtesy card" traffic violation fix racket will probably top his original estimate of 100 in New York city and some nearby areas.

The number may excede those involved in the Harry Gross bookmaking graft scandal, Silver added yesterday in a recorded talk on the WCBS "Let's Find Out" radio program.

The racket is under investigation by a Brooklyn Grand Jury.

Thus far, Silver said, no "police brass" or politicians have been involved in the probe of police in New York city and Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Silver added that if any top police or political figure does get involved, he "will be treated like any one else."

He predicted that the investigation will continue for "many weeks."

The racket involved sale of "courtesy cards" to motorists who could avoid arrest or a summons for a traffic violations by flashing a card to a policeman involved in the ring.

Riley J. Ratterbee said the change was the result of a nationwide study of current and anticipated workloads in district offices. He said the survey showed the 19-county Albany district was overstaffed while districts in New York city and the south were short of manpower.

Ratterree said all 103 collection officers would be given an opportunity to volunteer for jobs of the same grade and pay in New York city, and in the Atlanta, Ga., region. He said some jobs also were open in Florida.

If not enough request reassignment, Ratterree said "involuntary reassignments" will be made. Employes refusing such reassignments will be laid off, he said.

DWS Police Nab Six for Hunting

Six men, charged with trespassing on New York city reservoir property for the purpose of hunting were arrested by Department of Water Supply police Saturday and Sunday.

Five were picked up Saturday and one yesterday. Five were fined $12.50 each under civil compromise regulations when they were arraigned before justices of the peace. One is due for appearance before a justice next Friday at 7 p. m.

Corp. Dennis Carroll arrested Timothy Anthony of 768 South Oak Drive, Bronx; Officer Thomas Ahearn arrested Philip Coletti and Oral Miner, of West Shokan, and Lt. Edward Blalock and Corp. Hilton Smith arrested Raymond Krom and Leon Von Wagnon, of St. Remy.

Corp. Smith also arrested Roderick Downie, of Yonkers yesterday. Most of the men were arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Molloy of Phoenicia, and one was brought before Mrs. Katherine Carlson, a justice of the peace at Shokan. Coletti is due to be arraigned at 7 p. m. Friday.

Police Charge Trio With Holdup Spree

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 29 (AP)—Thrge youths, said by police to have admitted a wave of holdups in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, were held today on armed robbery and concealed weapons charges.

Police identified the three as John Dloughy, 24, of 26 Ohio Rd., and Richard Shelley, of 33 First avenue, 24, both of Spring Valley, and Donald Smith, 22 of Hard avenue, Garnersville, N. Y.

County Prosecutor Guy Calissi said the youths were nabbed Friday night as they rode through Park Ridge. A police search of the car and the trio turned up three loaded guns and an "arsenal" of ammunition.

Calissi said the three admitted holdups in East Rutherford, Guttenberg, Closter and Mahwah, all in New Jersey; in Astoria, and Westchester county and Suffern, all in New York; and one unidentified town in Connecticut.

The youths were held in the Bergen county jail there.

Grandma Doss

Edmondson related, Mrs. Doss declared "my conscience is clear." He said it was a comment she uttered after each formal statement.

The only surviving husband of Mrs. Doss is Charley Braggs of Alabama City, Ala. Edmondson said Mrs. Doss told him the marriage to Braggs in 1921 produced four daughters, two now living. They divorced in 1928.

County investigator W. A. Lang said Mrs. Doss declared she had been jealous of Lanning and Morton because they were popular with the women. She claimed Harrelson beat her so she poured liquid poison into his jug of corn whiskey.

Edmondson said she told him she poisoned Doss twice because "he was mean to me." Once by pouring on "a lot of poison on his prunes." After eating them he went to the hospital for 23 days. The day after he returned. Mrs. Doss was quoted, she gave him a tablespoonful of poison in a cup of coffee.

Doss drank the coffee and died the next day at the hospital, she recalled.

"He sure did like prunes," she was quoted. "I fixed a whole box and he ate them all."

Edmondson said she denied any connection with the deaths of her sisters, her mother or Harrelson's 2½-year-old grandson who preceded Harrelson in death by two months.

Mrs. Doss permitted an interruption of her interrogation yesterday long enough to make an appearance for television cameramen. She sat through a filmed interview at which only questions from authorities were permitted.

MRS. NANNIE DOSS, 49-year-old grandmother, leaves courthouse in Tulsa, Okla. (Nov. 27) after seven hours of questioning by officers of Oklahoma and Kansas. County Attorney J. Howard Edmonston said eight persons closely associated with Mrs. Doss have died under strange circumstances, including four husbands and four other relatives. Police said she told them Sunday she fed her fourth husband poison and that Saturday she admitted she poisoned No. 5. (AP Wirephoto).

Gives to Charity

London, Nov. 29 (AP)—Sir Louis Sterling, who came here by cattle boat in 1903, marked his 75th birthday by donating 200,000 pounds ($560,000) to charity today. Now a British subject, the New York-born industrialist became a knight in 1937.

Bomb Fleet

ed discussing any exact timetable for production of B52s, the first of which are scheduled for delivery to operating units next fall, they emphasized the urgency of the program.

One official said the air force is trying to convert from B36s to B52s "as quickly as possible," and that "we are bucking time." The reference obviously was to the reported rapid buildup of Russia's fleet of strategic bombers and jet fighters which could operate effectively against slower piston-engined bombers flying in at altitudes lower than the all-jet bombers.

THE B52 WILL BE built at two plants of Boeing Airplane Company, Seattle and Wichita. It is powered with eight J-57 engines, each producing about 10,000 pound thrust. Maximum weight of the plane, fully loaded with fuel and bomb, is about 300,000 pounds, somewhat less than the B36.

Secretary of Air Harold Talbott has said the present range of the B52 is about 6,000 miles, with hope for extending that to 10,000. This would make its combat radius (the distance to which it can fly and return to base, with additional mileage for time over the target and variations from direct course) about 2,500 miles.

However, the B52 is equipped for in-flight refueling from a tanker plane.

Wrangle Occurs At Murder Trial

Cleveland, Nov. 29 (AP)—The defense and an expert state witness wrangled bitterly today over the extent of the injuries Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard received on the day of his wife's murder.

Dr. Richard Hexter, a physician who examined Sheppard, was the witness.

Sheppard claims he was struck down and twice knocked unconscious by a "bushy haired" marauder, who he says was the actual murderer.

Hexter examined the osteopath on the afternoon of July 4, only a few hours after the slaying of Sheppard's pregnant wife Marilyn, 31.

A HEATED ARGUMENT began when Hexter testified about the significance of the absence of abdominal reflexes.

He found such absence on the right side of Sheppard's abdomen, he said.

But "in and of itself, such an absence of reflex doesn't mean a thing," Hexter said.

Defense Attorney William J. Corrigan, in cross examination, pounced fiercely on this statement.

He contended that a blow on the neck could have injured the central nervous system, and he tried to force Hexter to agree that the absence of the abdominal reflex showed this injury.

HEXTER REPLIED that 11 per cent of normal men do not have normal abdominal reflexes. He cited his sources and statistics for this. This was the basis for his statement that the absence of the reflex "in and of itself, doesn't mean a thing."

Corrigan, his voice rising, said:

"I am going to ask this court and this jury to perform an experiment. I am going to ask them to hit themselves in the back of the neck at the base of the brain to judge the tremendous force of the blow."

Prosecution attorneys objected and Judge Edward Blythin said that kind of experiment could not take place in his courtroom.

Corrigan hammered away hard on his contention that the status of Sheppard's abdominal reflexes that day indicated a severe blow at the base of the brain and an injury to the central nervous system.

Dr. Hexter, in direct testimony, said the defendant had injuries of his mouth, face, forehead and ribs. But as to the possibility of a spinal injury, he said "I could not make a diagnosis of a spinal cord injury."

Fire Damages Car After Striking Rails

A 1951 sedan owned by Roland Vandermark, 25, of Kerhonkson, was damaged by a fire which broke out after it struck guard rails along Route 209 two miles south of Kerhonkson about 8:30 p. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Troopers said Vandermark told them the vehicle struck seven guard rail posts. Vandermark, who apparently was not hurt, left to call a tow truck, and the fire broke out while he was away, according to the report. Someone summoned the Kerhonkson Fire Department, which responded and extinguished the blaze.

More Than 200 Bid for Money

Seoul, Nov. 29 (AP)—More than 200 Korean businessmen today bid for 2 million U. S. dollars put on sale by American forces in Korea to obtain needed Korean currency.

The sealed bids were said by business circles to offer up to 500 hwan to the dollar. The official rate is 180 to 1. The black market offers 700-800 to 1.

Results will be announced tomorrow.

The auction was agreed to by the Korean government to break a seven-week dispute with the U. S. over the hwan-dollar exchange rate.

Conductor Is Ill

Berlin, Nov. 29 (AP)—Wilhelm Furtwaengler, 68-year-old conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, was reported seriously ill today with a lung inflammation. Furtwaengler is scheduled to take the Berlin orchestra on an extensive tour of the United States and Canada next February in its first such postwar visit.
